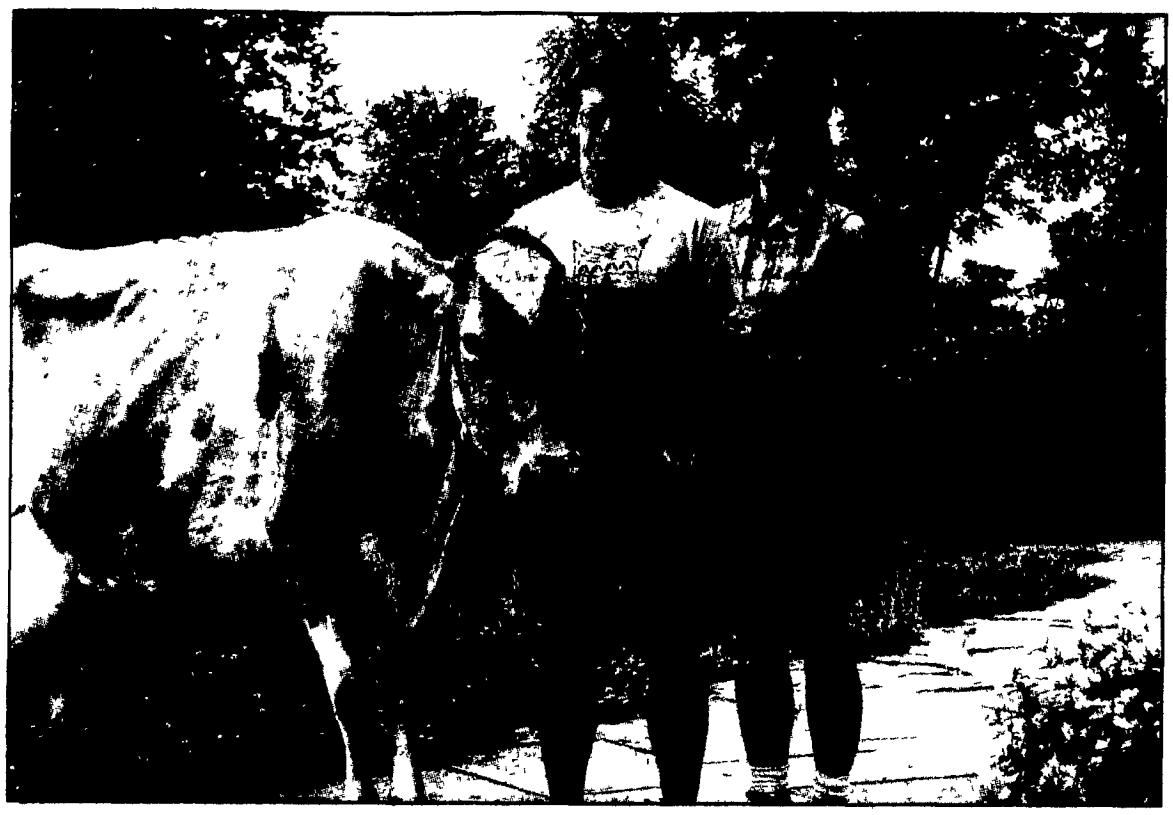
Top Commercial Guernsey Herd Grazes In Lancaster



Axel and Millie Linde are partners in Lindenhof Guernseys and have won the American Guernsey Association's Top Commercial Herd Award for the second straight year. Though none of their animals are halter broken, Axel holds the halter of the farm's currently oldest working cow, Lindenhof Beatrix, an 11-year-old bred to a young sire.

UNION (Lancaster Co.) — For the second straight year, Lindenhof Guernseys in Lancaster County has been named the winner of the American Guernsey Association's top commercial herd award.

It's a great honor for the brother-and-sister partnership of Millie Widmann and Axel Linde, owners of Lindenhof Guernseys, located near the small village of Union, along the southeastern edge of the Lancaster County.

Millie and Axel said the award has come as a complete surprise, and they appreciate the honor of receiving it.

Their win is to be announced during the National Guernsey Association's annual convention, set to be held in Columbus, Ohio, June 23-26.

However, a representative from Lindenhof Guernseys won't be there to accept the award.

They said they went to the convention last year to receive the 1997 national commercial herd award.

This year, though they would like to attend, they cannot get away.

They also didn't think they would win, they said.

Fly Control Part Of New Pest Guide Available In Fall

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Penn State's Poultry Pest Management Guide will soon have new updates and ways to deal effectively and rather inexpensively with that unfortunate pest: the housefly.

According to Dr. Charles Pitts, professor of entomology and soon to be professor emeritus at Penn State, and interim head of the Department of Entomology, the new guide, available in the fall, may feature color pictures of insects — if the producers want — at additional cost.

Gov. Ridge Declares Drought Watch For Most Of State

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Drought concern is back again.

Perhaps bigger than ever.

In the 110 years that water flow data on the Susquehanna River has been recorded at Harrisburg, the record low flow is currently being observed, for this time of year.

Much of the state is experiencing record low or near record low water flows that historically aren't reached until late July or August, after a typically dry summer.

While state and agency officials are reluctant to issue a more serious cry of alarm, it has to be noted that metereologists have reported that the Middle Atlantic states normally experience drier and hotter than average weather following the oceanic weather influencer La Nina.

Last year was La Nina. (It affected the California dairy industry severely, helping to boost milk prices nationally, though the state has recovered already this year.)

As of last week, state agencies and multi-state authorities have issued calls for voluntary water use reductions, especially for non-essential uses.

Lancaster County Dairy Princess Elisa Ranck, left, and Alternate Elizabeth Young have plenty of hands-on experience working on their families' farms and in promoting the industry. Turn to page B2 to read about the pageant, held last Saturday. Photo by Lou Ann Good.

These three beautiful workhorses are typical of the 60 to 70 horses that will be working the fields at Horse Progress Days to be held at the Rough and Tumble Museum grounds at Kinzers in early July. For anyone with a desire to farm with horses, the event has a lot of reasons to attend. See story page A25.

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was generally noted as slow and typical of the middle of the week. Seller offerings varied in both volume and size, but were readily available on all but the 3 pound size which was irregularly available. Live supplies were mostly moderate; weights varied in a full range of light to heavy. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 56 to 68 cents. Trade sentiment was steady at best. Legs, leg quarters and drums were well cleared. Bone-in breasts were adequate to closely balanced. Boneless skinless breasts and wings were slow to clear.

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Wheat bids mostly lower today, but other commodities higher. Wheat mostly steady to 2 cents lower, except Minneapolis 11 cents lower. Corn 3 to 6 cents higher. Sorghum 6 to 9 cents higher. Soybeans 3 to 6 cents higher. Delayed wheat plantings up north were not as serious as first thought and prices lower up there. Harvest getting underway for Winter Wheat down south and prices a little lower. Few export announcements this week, but nothing to big. China's wheat production estimated increased substantially and this a negative price factor. Good export announcements for corn today. New crop corn was up only slightly. Crops looking good and many places already covering the ground and this will slow drying out in case of hot dry weather. A couple of more rains next month and this year's crop will be large. New crop corn on the Board at a 10 cent premium to current quotes, but most elevators have a minus 15 basis compared to 10-12 cent current basis. Soybean export announcements short this week and year to date delivery inspections are far behind a year ago. Planting is pretty well finished for this year, but there is still time for putting in late beans. New crop quotes on the Board only 5 cent above current. Elevator and processor basis not too far from option for current cash bids, but a 25 discount for new crop.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

JUNE 21-27, 1999

MIDSUMMER DAY, JUNE 24.

SUMMER SOLSTICE

June 21, at 3 49 P.M , Eastern Daylight Time, marks the onset of summer What better time to look to your woodpile or other fuel source than now? Does the chimney need cleaning? Your local sweep will appreciate the early call, before snow covers the roof again Is it time to clean the furnace filter? Is the overall cost of wood cheaper than oil if you consider your time? If so, is your woodpile in the most efficient spot for braving those winter winds and snows? It was a wise soul who located the barn no more than 25 steps from the house. Now is the time to add a breezeway or improve the log carrier

The road of by and by leads to the house of never.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Rub garlic, onion, baking soda paste, or cucumber on insect bites and stings.

SUMMER TUNA SALAD

1/4 cup olive oil
1/4 cup vinegar
2 cloves garlic, minced
3 oranges, peeled and seeded
1 red onion, sliced
1 can (9 ounces) water-packed tuna, drained
1/4 cup chopped black olives
1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
salt and pepper, to taste
salad greens
1/2 cup pine nuts, toasted

Whisk together oil, vinegar, and garlic. With a sharp paring knife, cut away membranes and pith from the oranges, allowing juice and pulp to fall into salad dressing Add onion, tuna, olives, parsley, and seasonings, mixing well Divide greens among four plates and top with tuna salad Garnish with toasted pine nuts

Makes 4 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Happy are the fields that receive summer rain.

Rain on St. John's Day (June 24), damage to nuts.

Cut your thistles before St. John, you will have two instead of one.

OPINION

Renewable Energy Sources Now.

We have a gold mine waiting for farmers and a strong security measure for our nation if we would just get to work on the development of alternative energy sources offered by the expanded use of crops. Dean Kleckner, president of the American Farm Bureau said it last week while speaking to a Senate panel.

"We can and we should look to the future with the goal in mind that we have the means and the will to fashion new energy sources that are renewable, environmentally sound and domestic in origin," Kleckner said. He was testifying at a Senate Agriculture Committee hearing to examine renewable energy legislation. The National Sustainable Fuels and Chemicals Act would authorize research to develop fuels and chemicals from a wide variety of plants, trees, grasses and agricultural residues.

Producing fuels from plants and agricultural residues would offer farmers some much-needed hope. Our rural economy needs a boost.

But even more important in this consideration --to produce fuel from our domestic renewable resources would move us away from our dependency on foreign oil controlled by the enemies of our country. And the environment would be saved because trees and plants grow again.. When oil is taken out of the ground a natural resource is depleted never to appear again. We can only hope the political agendas will be put aside so the program to develop domestic renewable energy resources can move forward. Now!

FARM FORUM

Editor:

The difference between impossible and possible lies in a person's determination. It was a year ago that my determination was fulfilled by gaining the reign of SUN Area Dairy Princess.

It's June again - the only month dedicated to thanking the dairy farmers for all they do all year round!!

On June 12, I crowned the new 25th SUN Area Dairy Princess! This moment was a sad but a happy time. The privilege of representing the dairy industry this year has been extraordinary and hard to put into words.

Over this past year I have traveled approximately 3,160 miles between Snyder, Union, Montour, and Northumberland. I have done 44 school promotions, 23 radio spots, printed 21 newspaper articles, 15 non-farm occasions, 9 farm occasions, 20 store/mall promotions, and 23 special events. Each one has been different and has brought lots of memories to cherish!

When I started this year, I started with a smile! As the close of my reign comes about, I leave with an accomplished smile.

Throughout this year there are many people to thank. First, would be God for giving me the opportunity to accomplish what I did. Second, would be my family and friends for being there when I wasn't or being there when I doubted myself, and a separate thank you needs to go out to my younger brother Kyle. If you get a chance to talk to him he'll probably tell you he could count the number of days I was out to the barn on his toes!

Next, I have to thank my committee for support, ideas, a chance to make a difference, and putting up with my hectic schedule. Then I need to thank the farmers for giving me a chance to promote an outstanding industry. Without hard working, dedicated, honorable, and respectable people like you we would not have the world we live in today! Last but most certainly not least I have to thank my court. They were great to work with.

In closing, the only difference in impossible and possible lies in each person's determination, so ALWAYS put your best foot forward and give your ALL. Or you'll never know where life will take you! Good Luck in whatever you do!

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Look At Precision Farming

To take the first step toward precision farming you do not need high costing equipment like GPS, computers and yield monitors. according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent. While these items are all nice to have and play with, they are not the first step in precision farming. They are several steps down the road.

To be effective, precision farming should begin with integrated crop management (ICM). ICM will provide information for intensive management without a computer. ICM is based on long standing best management practices that reduce risk by determining the minimum amount of inputs needed in crop production while maximizing yields.

To Learn Integrated Crop Management

Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent, reports the major elements of integrated crop management (ICM) include: thorough crop production and protection planning, crop rotations, tillage management, nutrient testing of soils, nutrient testing of bio-solids (manure included) applied to the land, credits for the nutrients in the bio-solids and legume crops, scouting for weeds, insects and diseases, keeping accurate field records and analyzzing these field based record when making management decisions.

ICM requires the producer to increase their management skills and knowledge base about crop production. The knowledge base is generated from on farm or site specific observations by the farmer or the farmer's crop paid consultant. The major advantage of ICM is it reduces inputs of nutrients and pesticides.

The conventional system of soil testing takes several samples across the production unit (field) and assumes they are representative of the entire field. Soil testing in the ICM system is based on observations in the field for changes in soil type, soil slope and crop production. Pesticide applications are based on observations that allow the farmer to apply pesticides where the pest exists rather than to entire field.

To Follow 29 Steps

Last week's column has generated the most comments I have received in a long time, including my Dad.

From Phillip Kimmel of Keystone Farm Credit, I learned Richard Waybright has just returned from the Czech Republic visiting dairy operations there. The Czech government has published Mr. Waybright's "29 Steps to Better Dairying" and distributed it to their dairy industry. As a result, the Czech dairy industry is rapidly growing and becoming very competitive in Europe.

It is amazing how the developing countries are coming to the United States to learn our agricultural production system. Similar to what we did in the 1860's to learn the agricultural sciences from the European universities. If we are to remain the world leader in agricultural production, we need to continue to look for ways to become better and continue to change our operations as new technology is developed.

You might want to review last week's column and start implementing those management suggestions. If you don't, your competition will.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "We become successful by helping others become successful."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

RETURN TO FOLLY
June 27, 1999

Background Scripture:
Genesis 6:5 through 9:17
Devotional Reading:
Deuteronomy 7:7-11

When I read the scriptural passages for this week, I remembered the theme that Winston Churchill inscribed in Triumph and Tragedy, the final volume in his remarkable history of the Second World War:

How the Great Democracies
Triumphed and so
Were Able to Resume the Follies
Which Had So Nearly Cost Them Their Life

For those of us who remember World War II and have witnessed what has taken place in the world in 43 years since its close, the words seem ominously prophetic. It does seem at time that we worked so hard, fought so tenaciously and sacrificed so much only to resume the follies which brought us to war in the first place.

FROM CRISIS TO CRISIS

This, of course, is hardly a surprise to those of us who read history. It is the story of the world from ancient time to the present: surviving one crisis and then planting the seeds of the next one. Each time, we think if we can only get through this one, we will never find ourselves in this situation again. But generation after generation lives from one crisis to another, usually of our own making.

While I don't believe the unchanging, unchangeable God of creation actually "was sorry that he had made man on the earth" (can God make mistakes?), I can understand why it is said "it grieved him to his heart" (6:6). The writer of Genesis here has a hopeless task in that he is trying to express in human emotions the mind of God. He is trying to illustrate the Great Flood as the consequence of the sin and folly of everyone—with the exception of Noah. The rest of humanity was depraved and they seemed to go from bad to worse. "But Noah found favor in the eyes of the Lord." (6:8).

During World War II our world seemed aptly described by the story of Noah: "For the earth is filled with violence" (6:13). But that is a fairly accurate description of the world at many times in its existence, including today. Corruption, depravity, licentiousness, cruelty, deceit and lying are all too prevalent in our society—at the bottom as well as at the top. Perhaps we need to ask ourselves about the consequences of the way we live today.

A DIFFERENT WORLD

I have been reading an interesting book entitled, How the Irish Saved Civilization by Thomas Cahill (Doubleday). It is a historian's account of how a small group of Irish monks took up the labor of copying all of Western literature they could find to preserve it in this most desperate time when the great Roman Empire collapsed under the weight of barbarian invasion bringing in the Dark Ages. Without this effort by the Irish monks, Cahill says "their world would have been an entirely different one—a world without books. And our own world would never have come to be.

In a sense, the Irish monks by the grace of God provided a Noah's ark to preserve civilization a time comparable to the Great Flood. There have been many times in the history of the world when this same phenomenon has prevailed. I do not think it chance, but Divine providence. Perhaps it is the continuing fulfillment of God's pledge to Noah: "This is the sign of the covenant which I make between me and you and every living creature that is with you, for all generations: I set my bow in the cloud, and it shall be a sign of the covenant between me and the earth" (9:12).

As we approach the year 2,000 there are many dire predictions of the end of the world. We need to look at the rainbow and remind ourselves of God's everlasting covenant. There will always be an awesome price for human folly, but God's redeeming love is even greater.

Award-Winning Alfalfa Grower Understands Vital Role Of Good Workers

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NAZARETH (Northampton Co.) — Bob Oswald admits there is no secret to growing prize-winning alfalfa.

Simply put, Oswald surrounds himself with good employees, trusts the work of his crop assistant, takes care of his fertile soil, and carefully times the cutting and drying of his crop.

"There's no secret to doing this," he told Lancaster Farming during a visit to his farm on a bright, crisp autumn day last year.

A couple of months before, Oswald picked up the grand champion ribbon for the alfalfa later cutting division, field-dried only category, from the annual hay show conducted at Ag Progress Days in Rockspring.

Oswald narrows his management down to a few time-tested strategies that can almost guarantee success: making the most of good, well-drained soils, soil testing regularly, and cutting the alfalfa on time and getting it stored when ready.

"I do it right or I don't do it," he said. "I love what I'm doing and that makes me care."

Oswald manages 700 acres of corn, 400 acres of soybeans, 120 acres of alfalfa hay, and 75 acres of wheat on about 1,295 acres for his dairy enter

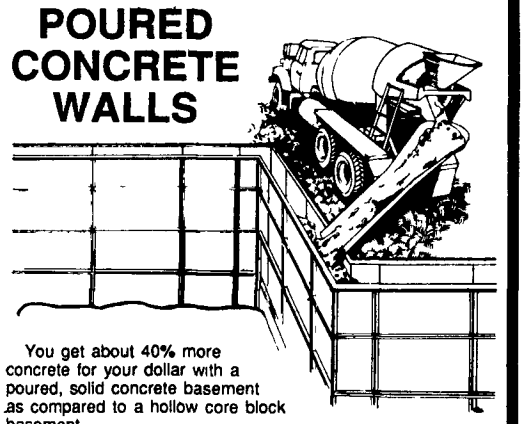
POURED SOLID CONCRETE

STORAGE SYSTEM SPECIALISTS

START WITH THE BEST!

POURED CONCRETE WALLS



You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs more per cubic foot! Far denser What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques, poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced

Solid Concrete For:

- Manure Pit Walls
- Hog House Walls
- Barnyard Walls
- Chicken House Walls
- Retaining Walls
- House Foundation Walls
- Silage Pit Walls
- Cistern Walls
- Concrete Decks
- Concrete Pit Tops

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices; slaughter steers, heifers, and Holstein steers sold fully 1.00 higher. The market gain was in response to the continued strong dressed beef demand that has pushed boxed beef cut- out values to the 119.00 level for Choice carcasses. Local cattle feeders seem to be pulling their cattle off feed a little earlier than normal to take advantage of the good prices, before the market take it's seasonal summer slump. Western feedlots only managed steady money for their cattle at 67.00 live and 104.00-105.00 in the beef. The slaughter cow market closed steady to only .50 lower, after losses were rather sharp earlier in the week. Slaughter bulls ended steady to weak, but top-end bull prices were not fully tested late in the week. Supply included 53 percent slaughter steers, 7 percent slaughter heifers, 31 percent slaughter cows, 5 percent slaughter bulls, with the balance made up of feeder cattle.

State General Assembly Approves Dairy Compact Legislation

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The state General Assembly this week passed an amended version of S.B. 365 authorizing Pennsylvania to join the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact.

Approved on its last day of session before summer break, the legislation paves the way for Pennsylvania to join the N.E. Dairy Compact.

What has to happen next for the Compact to take effect in Pennsylvania is: the U.S. Congress must pass effective legislation to reauthorize the N.E. Compact; and expand the borders of the Compact beyond the current six New England states for whi it was intended to help.

Federal legislation has been proposed to that effect and is actively under review.

The Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact is a multi-state agreement authorized by the U.S. Constitution, whereby the Compact states have formed a commission with authorities that include setting a minimum value on each 100 pounds of milk (called a floor price) a farmer sells that gets used as beverage milk.

The same Constitutional authority to form multi-state compacts was used to establish the Chesapeake Bay Commission, the Susquehanna River Basin Commission, the Delaware River Basin Commission, etc.

The N.E. Dairy Compact was formed during political manuevering associated with passage of the 1996 Farm Bill. The Farm Bill had set a course for the removal of federal commodity price support programs, including milk.

Pennsylvania is the last of the potentially eligible Middle Atlantic states to approve legislation authorizing itself to join the N.E. Compact.

It had been important to other states that Pennsylvania do so, until recently.

The federal law authorizing the Compact requires that states wishing to join must be contiguous to states included in the Compact.

The first states to enact legislation to join the Compact, such as Maryland, didn't meet that test until recently when Delaware passed its law.

State adoption of N.E. Compact legislation had been slow to take hold.

Not only did it appear to go against the free-market direction started by the U.S. Congress for United States' agricultural industry, but it didn't appear to make sense for New York and Pennsylvania to join, two states already with strong dairy industries.

Especially from Mid-Western dairymen there was expressed concern that the Compact price would have the overall effect of increasing milk production and depress prices for milk used for non-beverage dairy products, such as milk powder, cheese, etc.

Much of the milk marketed in the Midwest is sold at lower prices because it is used for non-beverage purposes. (The additonal uses for milk are called a Class II, Class III or Class IIIA markets.)

Furthermore, restructuring of the federal milk marketing order system and federal milk pricing system have been underway. Some had urged no state action until federal direction could be determined.

Up until late last year, New York hadn't adopted such an enabling law.

That state then approved Compact legislation when a salary increase for legislators was attatched to the same bill during late session action.

With New York's passage, Pennsylvania became the focus of attention for pro-Compact expansion lobbying.

The Pennsylvania General Assembly was close to resolving the issue two weeks ago, when, for the first time, on June 4 a news release from Gov. Tom Ridge's press office stated his support of the state Legislature's efforts to enable Pennsylvania to join the Compact, with conditions.

Up until that news release, the Ridge Administration had been quiet on the issue.

Only after it became apparent the state's two legislative bodies were in agreement on acceptable wording was the Ridge Administration's support made.

However, the news release alluded to dislikes the Ridge Administration had with wording in S.B. 365 covering the representation of Pennsylvania to the Compact Commission.

The main issue of contention this week regarding the legislation had been who and how many people should represent Pennsylvania on the Compact Commission (the Compact oversight group).

Under federal law authorizing the Northeast Compact, each participating state has the authority to send a maximum of five people to serve on the commission.

In April, S.B. 365 (authored by Sen. Roger Madigan) was approved by the state Senate, 44-6, with the provision that a Pennsylvania delegation to the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact Commission be restricted to three people, and that those three be the three appointed members of the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board (PMMB).

It was amended by state Rep. Raymond Bunt, chairman of the House Agricultural and Rural Affairs Committee, to change the Pennsylvania delegation to the N.E. Compact Commission to five people consisting of the chairperson of the PMMB, and the respective majority and minority chairmen of the Senate and House Agriculture and Rural Affairs committees.

The House amendment was made in an attempt to spread out the influence to the delegation. The three members of the PMMB are appointed by the governor, with nothing other than a two-thirds Senate majority needed to confirm the appointments.

With the chairs of the respective ag committees serving on the Compact Commission, it was considered that dairy producers and processors would be better able to communicate concerns and point out problems for resolve through the Commission.

It was confirmed that the Ridge Administration opposed that proposition.

The compromise wording inserted this week in the approved legislation maintains five people to represent the state to the Commission, although it replaced the elected officials with dairy industry representatives and a consumer representative.

The governor gets to appoint them all, but he must select from choices provided him by the various sectors.

Specifically, in addition to naming the chairman of the PMMB as a member of the delegation, the adopted amendment details who and how the other four are to be decided.

According to the bill sent to Gov. Ridge this week, the consumer representative shall be:

"A consumer, appointed by the governor, who shall not be, nor at any time have been, associated with or otherwise engaged in the business, practice or profession of farming in this commonwealth and is not, nor has ever been, associated or otherwise engaged in any business associated with the production, processing, marketing or manufacture of milk or other dairy products in this commonwealth."

The other three are to be:

"An individual appointed by the governor, from a list of no more than three individuals nominated by dairy cooperatives doing business in this commonwealth.

"An individual appointed by the governor, from a list of no more than three individuals nominated by the statewide general farm organizations.

"An individual, appointed by the governor, from a list of no more than three individuals nominated by associations of milk dealers in this commonwealth."

The terms are to be three years, except the chair of the PMMB is to serve whatever term is concurrent with the chairmanship of the PMMB.

In order to establish continuity on the board, a provision designed to stagger the terms of Compact delegation members was also set. The first consumer advocate appointed by the governor is to serve a term of one year; the first milk dealer advocate appointed by the governor is to serve for two years.

The legislation also includes that the Senate must approve the governor's nominations by a two-thirds vote.

S.B. 365 was also amended in House Ag Committee by Rep. Bunt to terminate in three years, requiring the Legislature to review the issue again then, if not sooner.

The sunset amendment had not been an issue of contention.

It should be noted that the two issues — state action and federal action on the Compact — have been held separate here.

Despite any twist may be put on Pennsylvania's passage by self-promoters and pro-Compact lobbyists, the overall wisdom of joining the Compact was never settled.

Instead, legislators who personally oppose the notion of the Compact said that, despite their personal misgivings, they were willing to support the legislation because of the strength of support from the long-time agricultural policy groups.

Horse Progress Days Coming To Kinzers

KINZERS (Lancaster County) - What started five years ago on Elmer Lapp's farm near White Horse in Lancaster County, has become a major attraction for Amish farmers and other small farmers who till acreage with horses or mules and want to know where to find equipment and parts for these horse-drawn implements. Called Horse Progress Days, and patterned after the big Ag Progress Days held in Centre County each year on the Penn State research farm at Rockspring, this show is designed to show all the new equipment that is manufactured for use with horses by small Amish manufacturing plants in Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

After having Horse Progress Days in Indiana for two years and Ohio for two years, the show is scheduled to be held back in Lancaster County for the next two years at the Rough and Tumble Museum grounds at Kinzers located along Route 30 This year, the show is set for July 2 and 3.

According to Elmer Lapp, well-known draft horse enthusiast, and founder of Horse Progress Days, two nearby farms have been reserved for field demonstrations of horse-drawn equipment. In addition, 60 to 70 horses will be working, and a 12-mule hitch will pull a 4-bottom plow More than 40 exhibitors with draft horse wares will be at the show.

Equipment for truck farmers who want to use horses on their farms will have special emphasis this year.

Also several breeds of smaller horses will be featured. The action will include plowing, disking, haymaking, and lots of other related farm methods and machinery.

Last year, 8,000 people attended Horse Progress Days Along with Lapp, committee members include Eli J C Yoder, Mt Hope, Ohio, and Floyd Bontrager, Middleburg, Indiana

File For Liquid Fuels Tax Refund

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Treasurer Barbara Hafer said this week that Pennsylvania farmers who file claims for liquid fuels tax refunds will have only one form to fill out this year.

Hafer, who chairs the Board of Finance and Revenue, said "the form this year combines the two forms that had been needed to claim refunds for liquid fuels and fuels use tax, and the oil company franchise tax."

Claim forms were to have been mailed Friday, June 18 and must be returned, postmarked, no later than Sept. 30.

"Applicants should be aware that the board has moved its office and the forms are to be mailed to: Board of Finance and Revenue, Motor Fuels Section, 1101 S. Front St., Suite 410, Harrisburg, PA, 17104-2540," Hafer said.

Claim forms are available at that address. Questions may be answered by calling 717-787-6534.

The treasurer explained that any person who uses liquid fuels in the actual production of agricultural products is eligible for the refunds.

On this year's claim form, farmers will be asked to list the type of agriculture in which they engage, for instance, dairy, cattle, fish, poultry, etc.

Treasurer Hafer reported that last year "board staff processed 9,281 claims and paid $3,049,695 in refunds. The average claim was $329, with individual claims ranging from $4.50 to a high of $9,977 paid to a farmer in Chester County. The refunds paid are 25.9 cents per gallon for gasoline and 30.8 cents per gallon for diesel and kerosene," she said.

Each claim must include copies of paid receipts or a statement from the fuel dealer that indicates the number of gallons purchased, purchase dates and verification that the state taxes (liquid fuels and fuel use) were paid.

Top Living Lifetime

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The living lifetime production awards recognize the leading lifetime producers of the Guernsey breed based on official production credits verified by the American Guernsey Association.

The awards will be presented at the American Guernsey Association annual meeting in Columbus, Ohio, June 23-26.

The average appraisal score of all the living lifetime producers entered in this year's contest was 89 points. The sires of the top cows – such as Dendels Orchards Cherie Chuck – were at one time at the top of the active A.I. list.

This year topping the living lifetime list for milk, butterfat and protein for the first time is Kilchona CC Tessa.

"Tessa" will receive the Liebers Trophy for her high living lifetime milk record, the Valley Set Award recognizing the highest living lifetime butterfat producer, and the Arnold Knight Award recognizing her as the highest living lifetime protein producer.

"Tessa" was born April 28, 1984. She is bred and owned by Carl and Irene Bosch of Tillamook, Oregon.

An Excellent-90 Dendels Orchards Cherie Chuck daughter, "Tessa" has living lifetime production totals of 203,689 pounds of milk, 9,371 pounds of butterfat and 7,339 pounds of protein.

Sniders Barrons Abby ranks second on the living lifetime production list for pounds of milk. "Abby" has living lifetime production totals of 196,180 pounds of milk, 6,941 pounds of butterfat and 6,469 pounds of protein. This Very Good-84 Sniders Choices Barron daughter is bred and owned by Berneta Gable of New Enterprise, Pennsylvania.

ELJO Gynns Glamour ranks second for pounds of butterfat on the living lifetime list. This Excellent-92 Shadylawn King Arthur daughter is bred and owned by Eldon Moss and Sons of Iowa City, Iowa. "Glamour" has lifetime production totals of 188,393 pounds of milk, 9,016 pounds of butterfat and 6,600 pounds of protein.

An Excellent-92 Wagners Emory Ned daughter ranks second for pounds of protein on the living lifetime production list. Maurana Neds Bessie, bred by Clayton Havens Jr. of Goshen, Indiana, and owned by Jan Lambrecht of Bedford Indiana, has lifetime production totals of 190,422 pounds of milk, 8,486 pounds of butterfat and 6,789 pounds of protein.

To be considered for living lifetime production awards, the cow must be living as of December 31 of the preceding year and have been in production on official test during a portion of the year.

The Liebers Trophy was established in 1949 by Mr. and Mrs. Otto Liebers of Lincoln, Nebraska, to honor the cow with the highest living lifetime milk production.

In 1986, the Valley Set Award was established by the Ronald Wenger Family of Goshen, Indiana, to honor the cow with the highest living lifetime butterfat production.

The Wisconsin Guernsey Breeders' Association established the Arnold Knight Award in 1992 to recognize the highest lifetime protein producer.

NOFA N.J. Sponsor's Workshop: Yes You Can Grow Organic Sweet Corn

FARMINGDALE, N.J. – NOFA-NJ will conduct a twilight farm meeting Monday, July 12, here at River Bend Farm. Featured speaker is Dr. Ruth Hazzard, entomologist from the University of Massachusetts. She will describe the result of her research into application techniques for direct foliar and silk applications of microbial insecticides and vegetable oils as alternatives to conventional pest control that are acceptable for certified organic production.

These techniques have been successfully field tested by organic farmers in the Northeast, achieving 90-100 percent levels of control for worm pests, including European corn borer, corn earworm, and fall armyworm.

Hazzard will also describe the life cycle of these pests and give tips on scouting techniques for monitoring the population in order to time applications correctly.

Rutgers Cooperative Extension IPM Specialist Joe Mahar will be on hand to describe resources available from the Rutgers program.

Information will also be available on NOFA's organic certification program for growers wishing to find out more about the opportunities of the organic marketplace.

The program begins at 6:30 p.m., with refreshments and tour of host Michael Marchese's farm market starting at 5:30 p.m. Admission is free to NOFA-NJ members and $5 for non-members.

For more information and directions, contact NOFA-NJ at (609) 737-6848.

Blue Mold Could Move Into Pa.

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Tobacco blue mold has been on a steadily increase problem for tobacco growers in the U.S. since 1990.

This increase is due to several reasons. First, long periods of favorable weather. Second, a change in the fungus, which made it resistant to the major controlling fungicide used. Third, commercial production and transportation of tobacco transplants between states. Fourth, poorly equipped sprayers, making the application of available fungicides less effective.

The past three years, Lancaster County tobacco farmers have had to deal with the problem but have experienced no severe outbreaks because of dry weather. The county was very lucky and managed to avert any major loss of tobacco because of the dry weather conditions during the last few growing seasons.

The National Blue Mold Forecasting Center at the North Carolina State University says that Blue Mold is active in Florida, George, Kentucky, and North Carolina. Most of these infestations have been in tobacco beds and greenhouses. They reported that the fungus involved is resistant to metalaxyl (Ridomil).

Blue mold generally moves into Pennsylvania from Kentucky or Tennessee. Last year it moved up the coast from Florida. Because of recent rains coming to the state from areas with blue mold, Pennsylvania growers need to begin managing their tobacco crop to prevent the disease. Tobacco beds and greenhouses are the most vulnerable to blue mold because they offer the best environmental conditions for it to survive and multiply.

Growers who have completed transplanting should destroy all plants remaining in the beds or greenhouse. If plants are still needed to transplant, they should be kept dry as much ot the time as possible and a fungicide should be applied on a regular basis, especially when new growth appears or after watering or rain has washed fungicide off the plants.

To protect the industry, a community effort by all tobacco growers is essential. Once blue mold gets a foothold in one tobacco bed, greenhouse, or field, it can produce spores and spread to neighboring fields. Growers' ability to control this devastating disease, according to Dr. William Nesmith, North Carolina State University, tobacco specialist, "will be dependent upon the tobacco industry operating in a community and regional effort for the benefit of all, rather than growers operating independently.

To assist Pennsylvania tobacco growers in controlling blue mold, up-to-date information in Pennsylvania and how to control it can be obtained via a toll-free number. Tobacco growers can contact the Blue Mold Hotline at (877) 465-3842. Messages are changed on a regular basis by Bob Anderson, Penn State Extension, and John Yocum, Penn State Agronomy. There is no cost to call the hotline.

The Blue Mold Hotline is sponsored by American Cyanamid, manufacturers of Acrobat Fungicide. Acrobat is labeled for use on Pennsylvania tobacco for the control of blue mold. Research has shown it to be very effective when used according to the label.

If you think you have blue mold, contact Bob Anderson at the Lancaster County extension office and refer to the hotline on a regular basis to get the latest information on the spread and control of blue mold in Pennsylvania.

DFA Spurs Industry Support of Dairy Relief Inc., Global Hunger Relief

Today's preoccupation with producing more milk, developing new dairy products and making the bottom line work, sometimes causes us to lose sight of real needs. In February, Dairy Relief Inc. (DRI), a nonprofit organization, was formed to help alleviate world hunger by providing dairy products for humanitarian aid.

With its first major grant of $50,000 from Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) and additional support from other dairy and agricultural organizations, DRI immediately began fulfilling its mission of relief here and abroad. Its efforts included:

- Establishing a grant to the Mennonite Central Committee of Akron, Pa., for delivery of nearly 7,500 pounds of nonfat milk powder to schools on the strife-torn West Bank of Palestine;
- Delivering approximately 20,000 pounds of buttermilk powder to Global Bridges, a Texas-based charity, for shipment to needy North Koreans for bread roll production;
- Shipping more than 39,900 pounds of nonfat dry milk to Honduran hurricane victims. (This DRI donation was made possible with the assistance of the David Livingstone/K.U.R.E. Foundation.)

"We've received contributions from many sources," says Tom Townsend, a retired dairy industry executive who serves as DRI vice president and chief executive officer. "Those contributions, along with matching funds from Dairy Farmers of America, have made it possible for DRI to make product purchases and work with other humanitarian organizations to put dairy products where they are needed most."

To date, DFA has matched more than $100,000 in contributions and DRI has generated more than $260,000 for humanitarian relief.

In coming months, DRI will focus on two fronts. "We'll be assembling additional shipments of dairy products and, at the same time, we will be actively seeking new donations," Townsend says. "We plan to reach and exceed our initial fund-raising goals in order to purchase and ship dairy products to hungry and undernourished people around the world. We hope this is only the beginning."

For more information about DRI or to make a tax-deductible contribution, contact Dairy Relief Inc., P.O. Box 1837, Springfield, MO 65801-1837, or talk to your local DFA representative.

Dairyman To Dairyman

GEORGE CUDOC
PA DHIA
Consulting
Dairyman

QUESTION: How do DHIA records fit into farm management advisory teams? Who should be members of the team we wish to organize?

ANSWER: The concept of a team management approach is not a new one. Organization among team members is the essential characteristic that makes this type of management approach new and very effective.

When I was growing up and first started working on a dairy farm, we did things like many others.

We used the services of a veterinarian for herd health issues which sometimes overlapped into nutrition.

We also had a feed salesman come by and balance diets, according to what we grew on the farm.

Then a fertilizer salesman guided us along for the crop needs.

I was too young to know or care about the financial advice given by the loan officer.

Lastly, when we were extra privileged, we had a visit by the county extension agent to discuss the hot topics of the time, involving some of each of the above.

In hindsight, I see that what was really lacking to get the best from all these people was the timing that would have brought all or some of these advisors together.

This is where the advisory team approach is different. We now realize the importance of coordinating efforts toward a common goal with the many advisors who come to our farm.

I am certaintly not the expert to ask about details of these types of groups.

For Pennsylvania dairymen, your best option is to contact Penn State University personnel who are working at putting this concept into practice across the state.

I did take the opportunity to attend a couple of workshops that have helped initiate the start of some of these advisory teams.

I also have many opportunities to work with dairymen and their advisors at farm meetings, where we discuss PA DHIA records and the story our cows tell to whoever might listen.

Recently, I visited a dairy in eastern Pennsylvania. Although there was not a plan to form an advisory team, I felt like we had inadvertently initiated one.

Upon arrival, I met with the veterinarian, the nutritionist, the artificial insemination technician, two employees, and the owner. This turned out to be the very best on-farm meeting that I had the privilege of attending.

To me, we had the essential people. We not only had the off-farm professionals who work together trying to improve the herd, but we had employees, who can provide valuable evaluation input as we discussed the implementation of changes.

I recently was asked to be a member of a newly formed adivsory team for a dairy whose owner feels a bit of stagnation in their herd's progress. I hope to bring this group insight concerning the cows' performance through DHIA records. This information is key to establishing goals that all members of the team need to work at accomplishing.

When discussing who should be on the teams that are formed, most of the obvious people come to mind.

Often omitted in that group are the employees.

Bad idea!

Another gorup of people who may be missed when forming teams are the DHIA technicians. These are trained professionals with a lot of experience and this talent should be tapped.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

July Field Clinic Offers Crop Adviser Credits

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Certified Crops Advisers (CCAs) can obtain recertification credits at one of two Penn State-sponsored Agronomic Field Diagnostic Clinics on either Tuesday, July 27 or Thursday, July 29 here at the Russell E. Larson Ag Research Center.

According to Dwight D. Lingenfelter, assistant extension agronomist, new techniques and technologies round out the field days, featuring demonstrations on a variety of agronomic topics and overviews of existing practices and procedures.

Sessions range from agronomic crop diagnostic tools to drying forages. Topics on minimum till and corn and soybean diseases will be offered both days. Registration begins at 9 a.m. The program concludes at 4 p.m.

Producers can select five of six topics for the day, which offer a variety of credit equivalent units (CEUs) for the CCA and pesticide license credits.

Last year about 230 attended the event, about 115 each day, according to the extension agronomist. Cost for the event is $40 per person.

Most of those in attendance included industry representatives, including ag chemical industries, seed, and other suppliers, producers, and representatives from several state agencies, including the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection, county extension agents, and others.

The one-day field clinics are designed to improve the agronomic management skills of industry personnel, extension and public agents, crop consultants, and farmers. Specialists from Penn State and the agricultural community will provide hands-on diagnosis training in crop production, pest management, soil fertility, and soil and water conservation.

Participants can choose from a variety of topics and have ample opportunity to diagnose, solve, and discuss crop management problems and situations. In addition to gaining practical agronomic knowledge, CCA and pesticide applicator license credits can be obtained.

The program agenda includes an "Overview of Diagnostic Tools for Agronomic Crops" by Dr. Dennis Calvin, Penn State entomologist. According to Lingenfelter, Calvin, associate professor of entomology at Penn State, will address an array of tools used for crop management. Calvin will review insect scouting, soil pH kits, triazine-resistant weed test kits, the presidedress nitrogen soil test (PSNT) kit, and others. "He will hit the major hot spots," noted Lingenfelter, on identifying and managing pests of major agronomic crops. CEUs offered: 1.0 pest management (PM).

Also included will be "Toxic Principles of Livestock Forages" by Dr. David Wolfgang, field studies director of Penn State Veterinary Science. Wolfgang will examine several plant species toxic to animals, including symptoms of poisoning, and will examine naturally occurring mycotoxins in feedstuff, each from a forage standpoint. CEUs. 1.0 crop production (CP).

Dr. John Ayers, professor of plant pathology, will discuss various diseases of corn and soybeans. CEUs: 1.0 PM.

Dr. Marvin Hall, forage specialist with Penn State, will provide a discussion on "The Dynamics of Drying Forages In a Humid Climate." Alfalfa cut in different stages will be demonstrated, including an overview of the many factors involved in forage drying. Hall will speak about the principles of moisture movement in the plant stem and leaf and how moisture evaporates and diffuses. CEUs: 1.0 CP.

Lynn Hoffman, agronomist and tillage specialist, will overview "No-Till, Zone-Till, and Adaptations to Make the Planter Work Better." Hoffman will look at corn and how tillage can be adopted for certain applications, including demonstrations of different types of coulters and row cleaners. Hoffman, a senior research associate, will look at equipment additions to provide zone- and no-till cultivation. CEUs: 0.5 soil and water (SW) and 0.5 CP.

Finally, Dr. Doug Beegle, soil fertility specialist, will address "Water Movement In Agricultural Lands." He will look at a tilled area in a field demonstration, examine percolation rates, and how water travels down through heavy corn stalks compared to a relatively clean coverage area, among other topics. CEUs: 0.5 SW and 0.5 nutrient management (NM).

There will be a question and answer period during each presentation.

Registration cost is $40, which covers lunch, refreshments, and support materials. Lingenfelter noted that similar one-day clinics in the Midwest cost $100 a day or more.

Use the registration form included here. Send in by mail or fax it to (814) 863-7043 or call Lisa Crytser in the Department of Agronomy, (814) 865-2543. Registration deadline is July 16.

World Dairy Expo Increases Premiums By $30,000

MADISON, Wis. — The World Dairy Expo board of directors recently approved an additional $30,000 for cattle show premiums.

The additional $30,000 in premiums will be d'vided among the breeds based on percentage of cattle exhibited in each breed. This will raise the total amount of premiums offered to $104,000. The additional monies were added with no increase of cattle show entry fees.

The board of directors also ratified the recommendation to add four new "breeder" seats to the Dairy Cattle Show Committee.

The Structure Sub-Committee of the Dairy Cattle Show Committee recommended continuing with the current structure plus adding four additional positions of three-year terms to:

Ontario breeders – Kenneth Empey, Dorchester, Ontario, Canada; Quebec breeders – Callum McKinven, Melbourne, Quebec, Canada; Eastern U.S. breeders – Ernest Kueffner, Boonsboro, Maryland; Western U.S. Breeders – Bill Vanderham, Mira Loma, California.

Other committee business included the announcement that 770 animals have been entered in the first Bill Graham World Dairy Center International Sweepstakes to be held in 2001. They also extended the 2001 entry deadline to Sept. 7, 1999 for yearling heifers at a cost of $250. Entry forms for the 2002 futurity will be available in the World Dairy Expo premium book mailed in early July.

The 33rd World Dairy Expo will be held at the Dane County Expo Center in Madison, Wisconsin, Sept. 30 to Oct. 4, 1999. This year's theme is Pioneering a New Century of Technology. More than 1,800 cattle are expected to go through the World Dairy Expo showring representing the seven dairy breeds.

For details about this year's show, go online at http://www.world-dairy-expo.com or call 608-224-6455.

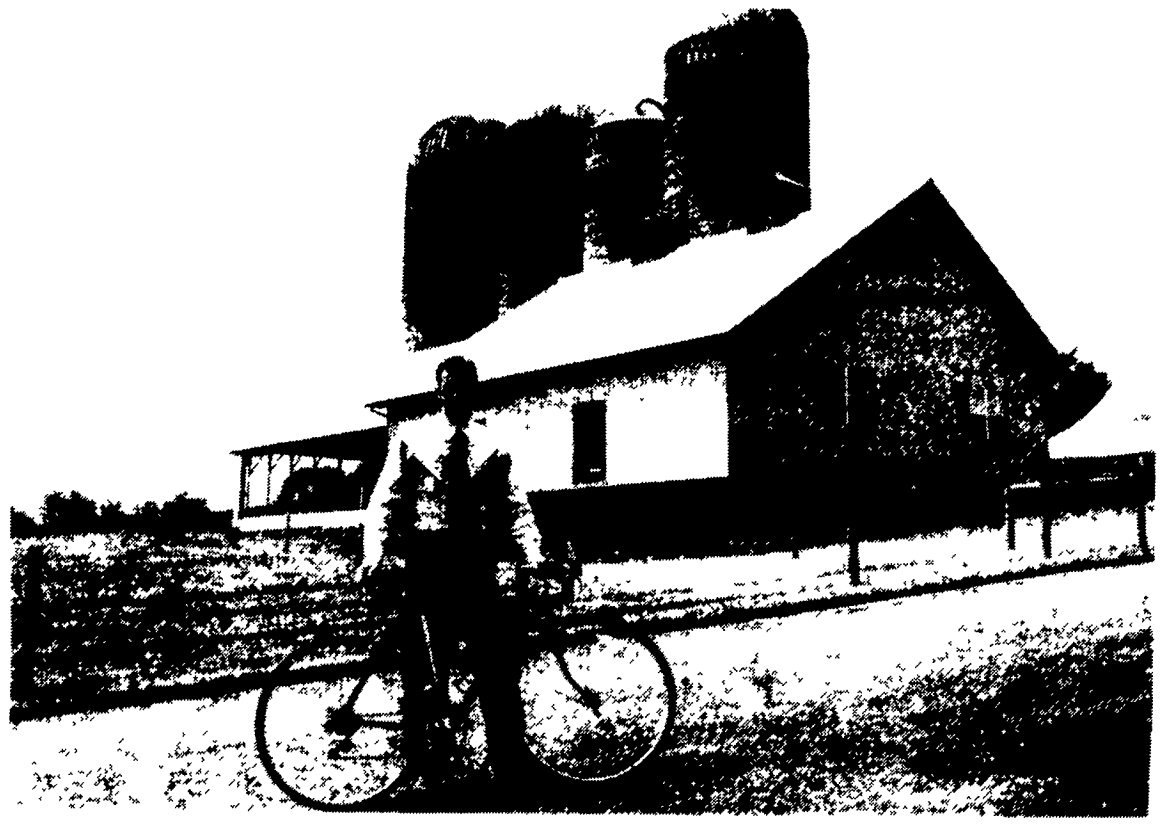
Pedal to Preserve Bike Tour

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) – Lancaster Farmland Trust's third Pedal to Preserve bicycle tour will be held on Saturday, June 26, 1999. Registration begins at 8 a.m. The tour accommodates leisure and competitive cyclists, offering both a 21-mile and 43-mile ride through some of eastern Lancaster County's most beautiful farmland. This year's ride begins and ends at Garden Spot High School, 669 East Main Street, New Holland, and showcases farms that have been preserved forever from development.

Registration is $20 in advance or $25 on ride day. All registrants receive a free event T-shirt and water bottle. Families are encouraged to ride along with PA Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Christian Herr, the honorary chairperson of Pedal to Preserve. Children 12 and under ride free when accompanied by an adult. Riders are also encouraged to obtain pledge sponsorships and qualify for valuable prizes. Pedal to Preserve attracted 300 riders last year. Proceeds fund farmland preservation efforts through Lancaster County - which was recently named one of America's 11 most endangered places by the National Trust for Historic Preservation. For more information, contact Jessica Abernathy at (717) 293-0707 or jess@savelancasterfarms.org

Lancaster Farmland Trust is a private, non-profit organization that has worked to preserve Lancaster County's productive farmland, thriving agricultural economy, and rich farm-related heritage for over a decade.



Pennsylvania's Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Chris Herr has been named honorary chairmen of the Lancaster Farmland Trust's Pedal To Preserve bicycle benefit ride. Herr posed with a bicycle in front of a barn this week to promote the event and lend his influence to the effort to raise farm preservation moneys for the Trust. Herr said he supports the effort because he is from Lancaster County and wants to save the quality of life inherent in communities where beautiful productive farms are preserved. PRESIDENT'S REPORT
Dan Wilkinson
President

With the spring planting season coming to a close and the summer harvest straight ahead, I wanted to remind everyone of the important dates coming up:

- June 30 - Summer conference registration due.
- July 2-4 - National Summer Business Meeting (Las Vegas).
- July 10 - Summer Conference, Grantville Holiday Inn.

Although this year's conference is only one day, it will include many interesting tours and sights around the Grantville area. We will conclude with a dinner and race at Penn National Race Course. Include this in your summer plans!

The 1999 National Institute is coming together nicely and lots of volunteers are needed for various functions. What will you volunteer to help with? Call any of the committee chairpersons and let them know you are willing to help out.

Plant Trial Program Begins At Farm And Home Center

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Interspersed among the "waves" are good things to eat, such as pepper plants that don't need stakes, Swiss chard, and Tai basil.

How, you wonder?

The general public can check out the site itself — because, for the first time, the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster is the site of one of the Penn State-sponsored Master Gardener Pennsylvania Gardener Selects Trial Program.

There, along the east side of the center, in the front, are rows of petunias, many featuring the popular "wave" varieties, and edible ornamentals, such as Swiss chard, Tai basil, pepper, Fernleaf dill, and okra.

Early last week, several Master Gardeners were on hand planting the ground with annuals (on the left side) and perennials (on the right) as part of the Gardener Selects Program.

The ongoing program will provide 20-30 annuals and five to 10 herbaceous perennial plants for evaluation each year, provided by the Penn State Horticulture Trial Gardens program.

About a month ago, Ray Leiby rototilled the ground in front of the Farm and Home Center to prepare the trial garden.

There are several such sites in the southeast — including Lancaster, Chester, Berks, York, Bucks, Delaware, Montgomery, and other counties — to be evaluated by a Master Gardener. The gardener is supplied with a summary evaluation form that will help Penn State select the best "plants of the year."

Penn State has been involved in trial gardens since 1932, conducting independent evaluations on plant viability, standability, and performance.

This year marks the first time that Lancaster County has been selected as a site. At the Farm and Home Center, Master Gardener E.P. "Max" Peters will be marking a checkoff sheet, rating plants from 5 (excellent) to 1 (unacceptable), taking a subjective analysis of the plants' overall symmetry, leaves, evidence of disease or insect damage, uniformity, and other items. Evaluations begin soon.

Peters noted he will check out the plants every other Tuesday for a total of nine separate evaluations.

"This is not a qualitative evaluation," said Peters. If the system works correctly, he noted, the evaluation should create what scientists call a "bell curve," which will place many in the normal or "3" category using this numeric system.

A plant with an evaluation of 1 would merit, simply, "getting the hoe out and throwing the plant away," said Peters.

Number 2 would ask: is the plant worth keeping? Number 3 would be what a normal person would expect in a plant. Number 4 would mean a relatively nice plant. Number 5 — that would be an outstanding plant, a "perfect plant," said Peters.

Number 5 would mean a plant with "no blemishes, a good overall symmetry, the leaves would be clean, there would be no evidence of disease or insect damage, and flowers would be uniform," he said. "We wouldn't expect too many perfect plants, though there could be a few."

The Master Gardeners at the center, like many growers, are dealing with drought conditions, so irrigation is essential. Lou Loiseau waters the plants.

Early last week, several Master Gardeners were on hand planting the ground with annuals and perennials as part of the Gardener Selects Program. From left, Pat Snyder, Shirley Wagner, Max Peters, Mickey Haag, and Lou Loiseau.

The plants were brought in from the greenhouse at the Southeast Pennsylvania Extension Center.

According to Shirley Wagner, trial garden coordinator and herself a Master Gardener, there are quite a lot of petunias.

They include the "three waves," she said — Purple Wave (they can grow to great lengths), Pink Wave, and Misty Lilac Wave.

"The petunias in back can grow as high as three feet," she said. They are the Kahuna Violet petunias.

Wagner said that Penn State has evaluated about 1,200-1,500 annual and perennial plant cultivars each year. The evaluations provide a reference tool for commercial growers, landscapers, and the home garden expert.

What the evaluations will help do is select plants that can be grown in specific locations in the state and those plants that will do well in all counties, according to Max Peters, evaluator.

The Master Gardeners had input as to what plants would be selected, and some were chosen for them.

Some of them included the edible ornamentals, including peppers that don't need a staking system, in addition to the annuals and perennials. Some of the annuals will spread out and cover a large area.

One of Wagner's favorite is the Fantasy Pink Morn, petunias that are small, pretty, hardy, and can fill in well in some areas of the garden. Wagner herself gardens and has been impressed with some of the plants.

Peters, who gardens amid trees in a forest, noted that certain plants will do well in full sunlight, but he selects plants for his own garden that are acidic, needing reduced sunlight.

The edibles at the Farm and Home Center were covered in a lightweight black screen to protect them from rabbits, mostly.

In years past, the Master Gardeners, who have worked on the Idea Garden at the Farm and Home Center, have had to brave cool weather, frost, and other problems early in the season. This week the Master Gardeners at the center, like many growers, are dealing with drought conditions, so irrigation is essential.

There were two separate distributions at the Farm and Home Center. Annuals planted include Argyranthemum, begonia, marigold, Salvia faranacea, snapdragon, and zinnia. Perennials include Russian sage, Coreopsis, Astilbe, Echinacea, Rudbeckia, and Salvia. Annuals also include Portulaca.

F.O. 4 May Weighted Price $12.64

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Middle Atlantic Order Acting Market Administrator David Z. Walker recently announced a May 1999 weighted average milk price of $12.64 per hundredweight.

The weighted average differential price was $1.48 per hundredweight and the producer nonfat milk solids (NFMS) price was 80 cents per pound.

The weighted average price was up 60 cents from April but was $1.27 lower than a year earlier.

The producer NFMS price was up 29 cents from last May.

The nonfat milk solids price, applicable to handler payments, was $80.68 cents per pound for the month, up 28.87 cents from last year.

The gross value of May producer milk, adjusted to 3.5 percent butterfat was $78.3 million, compared to $80.4 million a year ago.

Mr. Walker said that producer receipts totaled 622.3 million pounds during May, an increase of 40.8 million pounds from last May and the average daily delivery of 3,954 pounds per producer increased 125 pounds or 3.3 percent from a year earlier.

A total of 5,077 producers supplied Order 4 handlers during the month, an increase of 178 from a year ago.

Class I producer milk totaled 214.6 million pounds and was down 5 million pounds, or 2.3 percent, from last May. Class I milk accounted for 34.48 percent of total producer milk receipts during the month, compared with 37.75 percent in May 1998.

The average NFMS test of producer milk was 8.7 percent, up from 8.67 percent the previous year. The average butterfat test of producer milk was 3.62 percent, up from 3.6 percent in May 1998.

Middle Atlantic Order pool handlers reported Class I in-area milk sales of 186.0 million pounds during May, a decrease of .9 percent from a year earlier, after adjustment to eliminate variation due to calendar composition.

Plant Trial Program Begins

Another edible is Fernleaf Dill.

Other counties have also been supplied with plants for the program. From the Penn State Southeast Research and Extension Center, other counties include Adams, Cumberland, Lehigh, Wyoming, Dauphin, Franklin, and Northumberland.

Other sites for the trial gardens are Butler, Mercer, Fayette, Westmoreland, and Lawrence, supplied by the Westmoreland County trial garden program. Other counties supplied, from the University Park location, were Blair, Crawford, Cambria, Monroe, Jefferson, and Carbon.

To participate, a garden must be open to the public, at least some of the time. The site must have irrigation (hand watering is OK). The site should be large enough to accommodate approximately 30 new plants each year, and 10 previous plants of the year, and 25-30 perennials. All plants in the garden must be labeled.

Participants must have their garden soil tested every year. Weed and insect control, in addition to soil fertility management, are the responsibility of each program. Sufficient labor must be available.

Objectives of the program include:

- Provide an educational resource for displaying the best of the new cultivars for Master Gardener training and public programs involving Master Gardeners and the gardening public in Pennsylvania.
- Educate gardeners and homeowners on plant material selection appropriate for the region.
- Train and provide hands-on experience in evaluating plant and garden performance.
- Establish a selection program where participating Master Gardeners select a "plant of the year" in each of the categories of plants.
- Provide a highly visible statewide effort to promote the Master Gardener program, ornamental horticulture, and the production and use of superior plant materials in Pennsylvania.

An open house is scheduled on Saturday, Sept. 11, for visitors to take a look at the trial program. The open house is free to the public.

Pitts, who spoke to about two dozen producers and agri-industry representatives Monday, conducted an informal survey at the meeting. What he found: the majority attending the Penn State-sponsored Poultry Management and Health Seminar at Kreider's Restaurant, Manheim, indicated they would pay extra to have color pictures of problem insects.

Importantly, Pitts reviewed a chapter to be included in the book on fly management in poultry houses.

Investing in some type of parasitic, beneficial insect control program and combining that with effective field management to control flies is "cheaper than a lawyer, I guarantee you that," said Pitts. So is discing in and compacting spread manure to ensure the maggots are killed before they turn into flies.

Pitts has been trying to get the fly control message across to producers for years.

"I spend a lot of time with lawyers and irate neighbors," he said.

Pitts noted that with the growing amount of confinement operations located near residential houses, the complaints have increased. More than ever producers must keep lines of communication open and be willing to invest in fly control programs.

Pitts, who noted he will continue as interim head of the department, said he doesn't plant to retire from Penn State for another year. In the meantime he is helping to compiled the chapter necessary for a complete fly control program in the guide.

The new guide is positioned to mirror the existing fruit guide at the college, which includes color on insects. The color is not for show — it's to help more accurately identify the pests involved.

The guide will include a preface, in the chapter, on incorporation of multiple tactics and checking for fly numbers.

The outline noted that "we are proposing a truly integrated program for fly management. Producers should evaluate their individual facilities and determine which combination of the following management tactics maximize fly control." Those tactics are:

• Prior to cleanout, capture Carcinops pumilio, a fly parasite, and store in 50 degrees cooler. If using the parasite, remember that they can carry salmonella — so it's important to look for a quality supplier. The beetle can be kept in a refrigerator for several weeks, Pitts said.

• Prior to bird placement, start with a clean house. There will be a section on using drying fans, the kinds of fans needed, motor size, cost, and other items. Treat posts and walls with a residual insecticide to control flies and litter beetles. Install manure drying fans every 60 feet down each aisle between manure rows.

• Bird placement. One area people tend to be lax in management is when they placing the birds in the house. Grower managers don't bother, after placing the chicks in the house, to check for leaking waterers in the pit. "Find out where the leaks are and fix those babies," he said. The longer the leaks continue, the more sloppy the situation can become. Even with a little bit of moisture, fly maggots can begin to proliferate. Make sure to turn the manure drying fan on.

• In Week 1, walk the pit daily to check for leaking waterers. "There is no way that you cannot get down there," he told those at the meeting. Some chicken houses have exposed water pipes. Cold water going through the pipes in a warm environment creates condensation. "This is enough to wet the manure pile and keep the fly maggots going," said Pitts. One older house had so much condensation that, Pitts said, "it's just slop." Maggots can develop all along the piles. During Week 1, place the spot cards. Order the parasitic wasps (there will be some information on release strategy in the guide).

Pitts noted that using a sawdust bedding actually keeps fly populations down, because of a combination of materials in the sawdust, though Penn State is still studying exactly how the materials interact to prevent fly development. But at Week 1, make sure to turn the drying fans on.

• In Week 2, walk the pit daily to check for leaking waterers. Change spot cards. Release the parasitic wasps. Release Carcinops. The rate is about one parasite per bird, established to the 8-10 week period, when the "good insects can give you a good run for the money," Pitts said. Aid drying with a snowblower, leaf mulcher, or shovel system — anything to get the material dried down. Trying to come up with a way to dry manure "is not rocket science," said Pitts, and many things can work.

• In Week 3, walk the pit again to check the waterers. Change spot cards. Release parasitic wasps. Again, aid in drying the manure with some kind of system.

• In Week 4, walk the pit again. Change spot cards. Release wasps. Continue to aid in drying. By doing the simple things on a regular basis, flies won't pose that great a problem. Producers can do this, Pitts noted. If they don't, a potential lawsuit could make it worthwhile.

Two problems that can surface include the potential for moving lesser meal worms into the house during manure handling.

Pitts pointed to one case in Ohio where the beetles got into a house and were spread before cleanout.

PDA Sponsors Ag Export Marketing Seminar

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On behalf of Gov. Tom Ridge, Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. this week announced a seminar on export marketing and financial resources for Pennsylvania agricultural companies, from 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. on Thursday, June 24, at the Dixon University Center, 2986 North Second St., Harrisburg.

"This session will offer practical advice on how to build export sales by accessing federal and state export consulting, marketing and research funds," Hayes said.

"Gov. Ridge is working to take Pennsylvania's products to the world today, because it will mean more jobs for Pennsylvania tomorrow. Our goal is simple: to increase our exports and create jobs in every region of Pennsylvania.

"Gov. Ridge has insisted that taking Pennsylvania's products to the world is essential to compete in today's global economy, including our world-class agricultural products," Hayes said.

During his trade mission to Mexico in March, Gov. Ridge helped to kick off Mexico's largest international agricultural and livestock trade show in Guadalajara to promote Pennsylvania's agri-business industry to a global marketplace.

According to the U.S. Department of Commerce, each billion dollars of United States exports supports, on average, about 13,000 U.S. jobs.

Workers in jobs directly supported by goods exports receive wages 20-percent higher than the national average.

Total exports for Pennsylvania increased 31 percent from 1994 to 1998, to $20.8 billion, according to the Massachusetts Institute for Social and Economic Research.

Pennsylvania's agricultural exports totaled nearly $1 billion in 1998.

Featured speakers for the agricultural export seminar include Hayes; Dr. Judith Sen, program manager at Ben Franklin Technology Center in Middletown, Dauphin County; and Steve Hirano, senior trade adviser for the new Japan External Trade Organization (JETO) office in Harrisburg, Dauphin County.

Service providers from several organizations will have exhibits and be available to offer assistance and information to participants. The seminar is co-sponsored by Team Pennsylvania's South Central Region; the Ben Franklin Technology Center; the Kutztown University Small Business Development Center; and JETO.

For further assistance, call Cathie Lenig, Bureau of Market Development, Department of Agriculture, at (717) 783-3181.

Gov. Ridge Declares Drought Watch For Most Of State

Agricultural operations are considered an essential use of water and are not to be restricted.

The bottom line is that irrigation of crops and watering animals is not to be interrupted. However, for home use, those in agriculture are asked to also voluntarily reduce water use.

On behalf of Gov. Tom Ridge, the state Department of Environmental Protection late last week declared a "drought warning" for more than two-thirds of the state.

The drought warning is the second in a three-level civil emergency response system to water shortage. It carries a goal of a voluntary 10-percent reduction in the use of water.

Under the Governor's drought warning declaration, 47 counties in three of the state's major watersheds — Potomac River, Susquehanna River, and Delaware River — are affected by the warning declaration.

Those watersheds comprise the central, southern and eastern portions of the state.

Specifically, the counties included in the drought warning are (alphabetically) Adams, Bedford, Berks, Blair, Bradford, Bucks, Cambria, Cameron, Carbon, Centre, Chester, Clearfield, Clinton, Columbia, Cumberland, Dauphin, Delaware, Franklin, Mifflin, Fulton, Huntingdon, Juniata, Lackawanna, Lancaster, Lebanon, Lehigh, Luzerne, Lycoming, Monroe, Montgomery, Montour, Northampton, Northumberland, Perry, Philadelphia, Pike, Potter, Schuylkill, Snyder, Somerset, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Tioga, Union, Wayne, Wyoming and York.

The first stage of concern in the state's drought system is called a "drought watch," and it carries a voluntary 5-percent reduction in water use.

There were 20 counties in that catagory, to knowledge this week. They are in the Ohio River, Lake Erie and related drainages, representing the western and northwestern portions of the state.

If conditions get worse for those 47 counties, the next stage would be a drought emergency, during which mandatory restrictions on water use are imposed.

While DEP declared the second level drought warning on behalf of Gov. Ridge, the authority to delcare a full scale "drought emergency" lies with the governor.

According to a news release from DEP, the very latest drought information (including a video on saving water in the home and other water conservation tips) is to be available on DEP's website homepage at http://www.dep.state.pa.us by choosing the "Drought Information Center" selection.

According to an article in DEP's weekly news publication, "Update," the current dryness of the state is a continuation of last year's drought conditions, which were alleviated enough with late winter and early spring rainfall to lift concerns by March.

However, DEP reports that spring and early summer rains were lacking.

"Spring is typically the time when meling snow and rain recharge groundwater levels and streamflows," said DEP Secretary James Seif, in the article.

"We began the recharge period already under a drought watch. To recover completely, we needed not just normal rainfall, but a surplus of precipitation to pull us out of this drought. That didn't happen."

In review of the situation leading up to this latest declaration, on Dec. 16, Gov. Ridge declared a drought emergency (mandatory restrictions) in 12 counties experiencing severe drought conditions.

On Jan. 15, two counties were added to the list.

On March 15, Gov. Ridge lifted the drought emergency declaration for those 14 counties, and downgraded all of the state's 67 counties to a "drought watch."

Since then, a working group of the state's Drought Task Force was convened last week, at the direction of Lt. Gov. Mark Schweiker, who is chairman of the Pennsylvania Emergency Management Council.

The working group is made up of representatives from numerous state agencies, including the Pennsylvania Emergency Management Agency (PEMA), the state departments of Agriculture, Environmental Protection, and Conservation and Natural Resources, the Pa. State Police, and the Public Utility Commission.

The group considered the evidence strong enough to urge further restrictions.

Further supporting the need for the DEP drought warning declaration, other authorities have expressed similar concerns.

On June 11, the Susquehanna River Basin Commission (a compact organization between the federal government, New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland) held a conference call among its commissioners to discuss a possible basinwide drought warning.

Further, in a letter to public water suppliers in the state, DEP urged water supply managers to monitor water sources closely, and to increase leak-detection and repair efforts.

All residents of the state are urged to voluntarily conserve water.

"A prolonged hot spell could result in severe water-supply shortages in some areas by midsummer," DEP Secretary Seif said. "It's critical that everyone practice water conservation, both at home and at work, to do everything possible to reduce our demand for water."

According to the news release, water supplies usually recharge in the spring enough to carry them through the summer months, when usage is at a peak.

Practically statewide, rainfall was in deficit for both April and May.

The result is that groundwater levels and streamflows are at record low levels for this time of year.

For the state's drought declaration program, five parameters are used to determine severity of water shortage — precipitation deficits; groundwater levels; streamflows; soil moisture; and reservoir levels.

SRBC Issues Warning

According to Susan Obleski, spokesperson for the SRBC, that agency has also declared a basinwide drought warning.

For those wondering which authority's declaration is most applicable to the current situation, it depends on where and in which watershed basin one resides.

While the authorities are effectively complementary, the difference between the declaration by Gov. Tom Ridge and the SRBC is that the SRBC has higher authority over the waters of the Susquehanna.

The SRBC's most recent declaration applies to all those in the 27,510 square miles of the Susquehanna River Basin, including New York and Maryland.

While Pa. DEP Secretary Seif, or a designee, is a member of the SRBC, and its declarations of drought are timed similarly because of conditions and communications, it is the SRBC that has jurisdiction over the waters of the Susquehanna.

Likewise the Delaware River Basin Commission has jurisdiction over its basin flows.

The Susquehanna River Basin comprises about half of Pennsylvania.

According to spokersperson Obleski, the SRBC's drought warning carries a 10- to 15-percent voluntary reduction in water use. That compares favorably to the state's call for a 10-percent reduction for the same area.

She also said the SRBC has

Gov. Ridge Declares Drought Watch For Most Of State

already set in motion official protocol to hold a hearing in July to consider upgrading the agency's warning to mandatory restrictions.

Because the commission has to provide a public hearing to receive comment prior to issuing a drought warning, and must give 20-days notice, it doesn't have the luxury to issue an immediate order, as the governor can do under an emergency.

Therefore, the SRBC has begun the process of preparing to hold a hearing to receive comments on upgrading the drought warning to a possible drought emergency, when it meets July 8 in Cooperstown, New York.

According to Obleski, the plans are being made for hearing, though a hearing doesn't have to be held. "If conditions require it, then we can go ahead," she explained.

Those interested in providing testimony, should the hearing be held, should call the SRBC to be included. Call Richard Cairo, at (717) 238-0422.

Obleski said that streamflow throughout the Susquehanna Basin are at record low flows for this time of year.

"Some of the tributaries in the lower area of the basin, have been on and off record lows, and those not at record low have been teetering at the edge of that," she said.

"Groundwater wells are far below normal" she said. "Lancaster County for the last several weeks has been at record low groundwater levels for this time of the year. Other counties hard hit include Dauphin and Cumberland," she said.

"Southcentral Pennsylvania has been the hardest hit. For the last 60 days, the entire basin has averaged 3.5- to 5-inches shortfall (of rain), as of Monday," she said.

Sunday evening and Monday evening rainstorms may have helped alleviate some of the problem, but it is believed that much of the rainfall, because of the way it fell, bypassed groundwater recharge.

Obleski explained that while people may see some recovery on stream levels because of Monday's evenings rainfall, without adequate recharge the groundwater levels won't rise.

The SRBC has a program whereby it pays the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to store water behind the Corps dams on the Susquehanna and then to release that water for power generation and water supply.

Companies that use water in ways that cause it to evaporate (consumptive uses) must either create year-round water storage facilities equivalent to the amount caused to be evaporated, or pay the SRBC an amount to make up for the loss of water to the basin.

The money collected is to be used to finance water storage.

The last time the SRBC called for water to be released from U.S. Army Corps dams was in 1995.

Obleski said that current drought conditions are well ahead of those experience in 1995.

Normally, she said the Susquehanna River at Harrisburg has a flow of 13 billion gallons per day, during this time of year. As of Monday, the flow was 3.9 billion gallons.

The release flows amount to close to 2 billion gallons per day.

"Our trigger critical low flow (to release water from the storage dams), is not that far away," she said, adding that she doesn't want to sound an alarm of panic.

However, she added that some of the streams in the basin are flowing at 25 percent of where should be this time of year.

"These drought conditions shouldn't be taken lightly," she said.

According to Obleski, as far as the other two states involved in the SRBC, New York state has yet to declare any drought warning, though it may in the near future; and Maryland is taking steps to declare a warning.

"It's certainly not an isolated condition to one state," she said. "The entire mid-Atlantic region is extremely dry."

Further, she said it is important to let people know that these voluntary redcutions in non-essential water use can really have a positive effect on water supply.

She said she has been using water gathered from a dehumidifier.

She suggested that people wanting a cool drink of water, pre-cool drinking water in a refrigerator or freezer, instead of running it.

Or, for example, any faucet water not intended for use can be captured and used for house plants.

Farm Bureau Foundation Donates $5,000 To Rule

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) – The Pennsylvania Friends of Agriculture Foundation has made a $5,000 contribution to the Pennsylvania Rural Leadership program (RULE). A portion of funds will be used to encourage more participation by farmers in RULE's two-year program for developing community leaders.

The Pennsylvania Friends of Agriculture Foundation is a charitable foundation established by Pennsylvania Farm Bureau to support educational scientific and other charitable organizations which are important to the future well-being of agriculture.

Marlin Miller, executive director of the Pennsylvania Friends of Agriculture Foundation, announced the contribution to RULE during a recent check presentation ceremony at Pennsylvania Farm Bureau's office in Camp Hill, Accepting the check on behalf of RULE was Ted Alter, associate vice president for outreach at Penn State.

"We have long been impressed with the results of the RULE leadership training program," said Miller. "It gives rural leaders the skills and abilities needed to meet the challenges of a changing community. We urge more farmers to take part in this worthwhile program."

To reach that goal, the Foundation has earmarked $2,000 of its contribution for use as scholarships to Farm Bureau members to attend the next RULE class. RULE is accepting applications for Class VIII until July 30, 1999.

For more information about RULE or an application for the next class, contact RULE, the Pennsylvania State University, 6 Armsby Building, University Park, PA 16802, (814) 863-4679.

The team placed 21st out of 60 counties that participated in the event. Three hundred students participated in the state Envirothon.

The 1999 Pennsylvania Envirothon champions are from Blue Mountain High School in Schuylkill County. Second place went to Eisenhower Middle Senior High School from Warren County. Penncrest High School from Delaware County finished third.

The Blue Mountain team will travel to the 1999 National Envirothon in July at Humboldt State University in Arcata, Calif.

The Pennsylvania Envirothon is sponsored by the state's 66 conservation districts, the State Conservation Commission, and the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts.

Fly Control

Also, if spreading manure in the fields, one-pass tillage won't be sufficient to kill the flies. Producers may have to cross the lot twice to get maximum kill of the maggots.

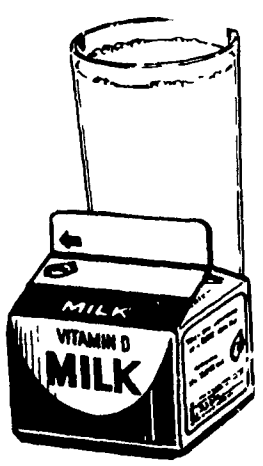
• In Week 5, walk the pitts to check for leaking waterers, change spot cards, release parasitic wasps, and continue to aid in drying with some type of system. This continues in Week 6.

• In Week 7-10, in addition to walking the pit and changing spot cards, if the spot card levels are below action threshold and Carcinops beetles are observed on the manure, turn the fans off.

• In Weeks 11 and longer, continue to walk the pit, monitor fly populations and respond to fly outbreaks as needed.

The new guide will be more user-friendly than the previous, Pitts noted.

For producers who face potential neighbor problems because of flies, keep in mind, Pitts noted, "don't ignore them," he said. "If somebody complains, explain to them what is happening. Tell them you're actually concerned about solving the problem."



Top Commercial Guernsey Herd Grazes In Lancaster

The Guernsey Association's commercial award recognizes the size of a herd and production.

To qualify, a herd must be above the average size of herds owned by members of the breed registry organization.

To be considered for winning, the herd must have strong production.

Though not a definitive measurement, the size of a herd arguably indicates commercial viability.

According to the American Guernsey Association, the award honors the top herd for energy corrected milk (ECM) that is at least one and one-half times larger than the average size herd on the AGA's Total Performance Evaluation (TPE) program.

In 1998, the average TPE herd had 38 cows. That means that, in order to be considered for the AGA commercial herd award, a herd had to have recorded at least 57 completed lactations during the year.

The award recognizes both TPE and non-TPE herds of registered Guernseys.

For 1998, the 65 cows that comprised the Lindenhof Guernseys milking string had an average of 19,545 pounds of milk, 865 pounds of butterfat, and 668 pounds of protein, with an ECM average of 22,403 pounds milk, according to the AGA administration.

Millie and Axel said that because herd averages for the breed are involved, only those tracking and calculating the averages can know who is in the running for the award.

Another thing that made the win such a surprise was that, while Lindenhof has been among the top contenders for the award for several years, they said that herd production dropped slightly in 1998.

However, even with a slight drop, they still made the overall top 10 list for AGA in production of ECM and butterfat.

But to the rest of the mainstream dairying industry, the production at Lindenhof is not what is expected for a commercial herd.

They graze their animals.

For the non-grazing dairy community, the practice generally means that, instead of making a lot of milk at a narrow margin, making less milk at a higher margin.

But the real world of dairying includes many more variables, making it difficult and complex, if not impossible, to compare which operational strategy is best in any given area.

It would seem logical that if cash flows were compared first, there would some point where the two types of operational strategies for dairy farming — grazing and confined — should be similar.

It would also seem logical that starting at that point, and then comparing other operational aspects, that beneficial and negative points could be found in each.

Following that logic, it may be possible to find that strict intensive grazing would have an advantage with small herds on a comparatively large land base, while strict confinement would have an edge used with large herds on small land bases.

Industry trends seem to follow that logic.

For the members of the Lindenof family farm, the mix of operational strategies used with their Guernsey herd seems to be in good relationship to the size of the farm, the land base, as well as the needs of the families.

They said they seemed to have found a fairly good fit between the two strategic extremes.

The Guernsey cow is integral to their successful formula.

Axel and Millie said they try to stay in the "Golden (Guernsey)" middle ground between high tech and low tech — they try to make as much milk as they can with the highest margin they can, without having to spend a lot of money or time.

While there are perhaps as many versions and degrees of incorporating grazing into a dairy operation as there are versions incorporating high-tech applications in a grazing opertation, Axel and Millie said their operational strategic mix was built upon a groundwork laid down by their father, Karl Linde.

Lindenhof Guernseys has been a continuous grazing operation since being started by Karl in 1956.

The regionally well-known dairy farming operation milks 65-head of Guernseys on 140-acres of land in a small, south-facing valley, located along the bottom edge of the Lancaster Valley flatland plateau.

Essentially, the entire region that encompasses the lower south-central and south eastern part of the state is a large sediment basin, like an old, dried mudflat between mountain ridges.

As is the same in similar lower river/upper delta regions of the world — years of erosion and natural forces have created valleys and apparent hills along the edges of the mudflat — water washed away soil and rock, and streams formed, cutting beds where possible.

Part of the lower Susquehanna River Basin, the Lindenof Farm drains into Chester County's watershed (located in Lancaster County), into the county's Octoraro Lake Reservoir, and ultimately the Susquehanna River.

The geological, geographical aspects of the farm and its site are important, because they were important to Karl when he selected the farm.

Those aspects of the farm are also important to Axel and Millie, the youngest and second youngest, respectively, of four children raised on the farm. They enjoy the continued privacy of the farmstead, as well as its natural resources which have lent themselves well to grazing Guernseys.

All four children were able to go to college, financed by Guernseys at Lindenhof, Millie said.

She earned an associate degree in dairy science from New York Agricultural and Technical College, State University of Cobleskill. She attended that school because they had a Guernsey herd at the time, she said.

Axel went to Penn State University, where he earned a bachelor's of science degree in geography. He also interned for a while during college with the former USDA Soil Conservation Service (renamed the USDA Natural Resources and Conservation Service).

Axel's studies included a lot of agronomy, and he sat in on a dairy course.

Both agreed that whether or not a specific discipline of study during college eventually lends itself directly to a job, such as farming, going to college is an education in itself and the experience helps to open minds to possibilities of achievement, and possible solutions to problems.

A 1980 national Guernsey queen, Millie said that speach classes she took at college helped considerably with her reign as promotional royalty.

They both contend that Guernseys are a perfect breed for the farm and them.

As grazing animals, they said that Guernseys are more heat tolerant and will produce when other breeds become stressed and drop production; Guernseys enjoy less expensive varieties of feed and grasses; Guernseys are generally a gentler breed than some (although some are more gentle than others, Axel said).

"Guernseys can work for you," Millie said. "They will produce for you."

After working together with their father for years on the farm, after each found respective spouses and sought to establish roots, Axel and Millie formed a partnership and purchased the 140-acre farm in 1985 from their father and mother, Karl and Else Linde, who live on the farm. In 1988, Millie and Axel purchased an adjacent 70-acre farm for crops and pasture and to keep dry cows and bred heifers.

Currently they graze about 20 acres on a strictly rotational grazing system. During the non-grazing season, long hay and ensiled field crops are used to feed the milking herd, while pasture cuttings are used to feed heifers and dry cows.

Born in Germany, Karl started the Lancaster County farming operation after emigrating to the United States, following his release from British capture after the end of World War II.

Karl said that in Germany, prior to his serving in the German Army as an officer and being captured as a prisoner of war, he had worked in landscaping. Evidence of his interest in landscaping and the natural world are all over the farm.

Through acquaintance and family connections, about 1950 he moved the United States to work for Arthur Brown, who at that time had 35 Guernsey cows, in addition to other business.

That's where Karl received his introduction to active dairy farming, and the Guernsey cow.

(It was also through those connections that he was able to meet and eventually marry Else, who came to the United States to study home economics at Drexel University, Karl said.)

Karl had sought out and selected the current location for a farm, because of its isolation, lay of the land, exposure to the sun, and water supply.

Even during drought the farm wells have been strong, especially one near an apparent subterranean stone outcrop near the house.

Because of the lay of the valley in which the farm sits, and the ridge that pokes out slightly, the well site appears to be a likely candidate for drilling.

The drilling site was selected however, by an older man with a divining rod, cut from an former willow tree at the farm, Karl said.

The buildings were not in good shape when Karl first purchased the farm from the James Stewart family, he said, but those things could be changed; the water supply and natural environmental conditions could not.

Karl began purchasing Guernsey cattle to get the dairy operation going.

Among those animals were some purchased from relatives of Dr. George Haenlein, a well-known University of Delaware dairy science teacher, researcher, and retired Extension dairy specialist.

While not significant to society at large, the purchase of "the 10 Zeitler cows" still is important to the Lindes.

Those Guernseys apparently were a line of Guernsey not directly from the Isle of Guernsey, but from a dairy line of Guernseys bred in Germany.

According to Axel and Millie, Karl frequented the Guernsey Pavilion in Lancaster and bought and sold Guernseys to build up the herd and its lineage.

The herd's currently oldest living cow is Lindenof Agni Beatrix, born August 28, 1988. Currently bred to a young sire, she is finishing a lactation with a 305-day record of 21,546 pounds milk, 805 pounds fat, and 695 pounds protein. She has a lifetime production of 178,430 pounds milk, 7,506 pounds fat, and 6,072 pounds of protein.

Millie said she's certain she can trace Beatrix directly back to one of the cows Karl purchased during the first five years of business.

The herd is diverse in genetics, and Axel and Millie have been strong users of Guernsey young sires to keep it that way and to help the breed's available gene pool remain strong.

Though not a major part of their business, they merchandise somewhat.

They have sold two bulls into artificial insemination — one on contract, the other discovered and purchased by an A.I. business interested in its pedigree.

They also sell calves for 4-H projects, private sales, and sold two this year at the state organization's Blue Halter sale.

"Now and then people want a family cow and are interested in Guernseys for their gentle disposition," Millie said.

"They also want the extra cream to make ice cream," she said.

Some of those buyers of family cows desire the higher butterfat content and the higher beta carotene content, she said.

They said that when people are interested in milking one or two cows for their own use, they try to make sure the people understand what they need in order to not become discouraged and abandon their interest.

For example, they said that some people who have watched some of the celebrity milking competitions at county fairs and special events get the impression that hand-milking is easy and not difficult.

They explain to them that hand-milking may work for them, but probably they will get tired of doing it twice a day, every day. For a little more of an investment, they tell them to seek out a small milking system.

Guernsey cattle in the herd are bred by Millie's husband James Widmann, who works with Cargill Animal Nutrition.

The herd is bred strictly artificial insemination, and they use a lot of young sires, to get a variety of genetics with Guernsey.

Millie said that they try to use "plus proven" bulls, and select out of the top 10, in addition to young sires.

"We try to avoid inbreeding," Millie said.

"That's called 'line breeding,'" Axel reminded her.

"It's only line breeding if you're successful," Millie said. "Otherwise, its inbreeding."

More seriously, they said that there are times when they have to avoid using a bull because lineage is too close, even though the promise of an increase in production seems to be there.

"Our main goal is protein," Millie said, "because we're in a protein market. We don't focus on type."

Nevertheless, they breed good animals.

They breed heifers when they reach a certain weight, not age. They have had some calve as early as 1 year, 10 months of age, and average 24 months.

They emphasized that they do not use artificial milk production stimulants, though they do have higher tech equipment, such as their TMR mixer to make a balanced ration during non-grazing months.

Depending upon weather, half of the fourth, and all of the fifth cutting of hay is usually grazed.

In the summer they graze sudan grass, and oats if it gets really dry.

"Puting a variety (of feed types) in front of cows is important," Axel said.

He said they manage the pastures by overseeding with red clover, and they try to regenerate pastures every 5 years, and they try to stay with a variety of native grasses and clover.

Five years ago, when they expanded the milking herd from 39 cows to 69, they installed a manure storage facility through participation in the Chesapeak Bay Program.

The storage provides them more than six months storage, more than they need. They spread manure three times per year — in April before planting corn; in June after harvesting barley; and in November.

They have a nutrient management plan as well, through the Chesapeake Bay Program.

(NOTE: For those who have not done so, Chesapeake Bay Program nutrient management plans need to be certified by the state in order to be recognized as official state-approved plans.)

Conservation of soils and resources is important at Lindenhof Guernseys, and Millie and Axel have continued efforts by Karl, who was named 1976 Lancaster County Conservation District outstanding cooperator of the year.

Also five years ago, the main farmhouse was refurbished with aluminum siding, etc., and improvements have been made over the years to facilities.

Axel lives with his wife Susan and four children — Sarah, 12, Elizabeth, 10, Stephen, 7, and Rebekah, 4 — on land leased from the partnership, on which he built a log cabin house.

They said they are enjoying their life on their farm and with their families.

The future of the farm is uncertain, but not a concern.

The 12 grandchildren of Karl and Else are too young to decide whether they want to pursue dairy farming.

Axel and Millie said the time will come when that decision has to be made.

In the meantime, they intend to dairy farm and graze Guernseys, and continue the farmstead as the center of family activities.

The next generation can decide for itself what will work.

AGA Names Commercial Top Herds

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The American Guernsey Association is to recognize commercial herds at its national Guernsey convention, June 23-26, in Columbus, Ohio.

The AGA will honor the top herd for energy corrected milk (ECM) that is at least one and one-half times larger than the average size herd on the Total Performance Evaluation (TPE) program.

In 1998, the average TPE herd was 38 cows; therefore, to be recognized for the 1998 commercial herd award, there must be at least 57 complete lactations in the herd.

This award was recognizes both TPE and non-TPE herds of registered Guernseys.

The commercial herd award is sponsored by the New York Guernsey Breeders' Cooperative and began in 1995.

The top commercial herd for 1998 is owned by the brother-sister partnership of Axel Linde and Millie Widmann of Kirkwood, Pennsylvania.

The herd owned by Dennis Nelson, in Hilmar, California, is second, with an energy corrected average of 22,112 pounds.

Hoard's Dairyman Farm in Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin, was third,

AGA Announces Gold Star Winners

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The annual Gold Star Award program of the American Guernsey Association recognizes those herds which have performed significantly well for both production and type.

To qualify for a Gold Star Breeder certificate, an individual's herd lactation average for 10 or more milking-age females must exceed that of the breed's national mature equivalent average for milk, butterfat or protein by 15 percent, which for 1998 was 18,156 pounds of milk, 804 pounds of butterfat and 627 pounds of protein.

Eighty percent of the cows considered in the herd's production results must have been appraised for type, with their average final score being equal or higher than the breed average of 79.7 points.

The award recipient, an active member in good standing, must be the breeder of at least 70 percent of the cows under consideration.

Gold Star Herds are considered using the same criteria, with the exception that no minimum percentage of homebred cows are required.

The herd lactation average must be at least 25 percent above the breed's national ME figures for milk, butterfat or protein; or more than 19,735 pounds of milk, 874 pounds of butterfat and 681 pounds of protein.

Double Gold Star recognition is given to breeders and herds which meet the afore-mentioned qualifications and are members of an organized Guernsey young sire sampling program.

Nineteen farms from 11 states received awards under this recognition program for 1998.

Maryland was represented the most on the list with four farms receiving awards from this state.

The Nells Glow Guernsey herd of Hilmar, California, tops the list for the most consecutive years this award has been received. Owned by Dennis Nelson, the herd is receiving gold star awards for their twenty-first year.

The W. D. Hoard and Sons herd in Ft. Atkinson, Wisconsin, is receiving the award for the nineteenth time. Ronald Wenger and his Valley Set herd in Goshen, Indiana, round out the top three by receiving this award for the fourteenth time.

Breeders making their first appearance on the gold star lists are: John Marchezak of Bentleyville, Pennsylvania; and Keith Dixon of Chestertown, Maryland.

The American Guernsey Association is the natural organization for the registration and promotion of Guernsey cattle and is headquartered in Reynoldsburg, Ohio.

Elisa Ranck Reigns

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Elisa Ranck accomplished exactly what she had been groomed to do since she was 10 years old.

She served in the first group of Lancaster County's Dairy Darlings, moved up through the ranks as dairy ambassador, and last Saturday was crowned as the county's dairy princess at the annual pageant held at the Farm and Home Center, Lancaster.

"She's come full circle. The program has accomplished exactly what it was intended to do," said Mistress of Ceremonies Elizabeth Smith.

In recent years, the dairy princess program was expanded to include girls from age eight to 22 in dairy promotion. It is believed that girls who participate in the program at a young age are more likely to want to continue to promote nature's most natural beverage and compete for the dairy princess title when they are between the ages of 16 and 24. The experience also prepares participants to be better communicators with the public and more knowledgeable about both the dairy industry and milk's health benefits.

The 17-year-old princess is the daughter of Donald and Ginny Ranck, Paradise. In addition to having the experience of milk promotion, Elisa is well familiar with hands-on dairying. She is in charge of feeding calves on the family's Verdant View Farm with its 88-head herd of Holsteins and 122 acres.

Working closely with Elisa is Alternate Dairy Princess Elizabeth Young.

"Elisa and Elizabeth are two outstanding candidates," said Don Robinson, one of the judges for the event. "Both are exceptional."

Elizabeth is the 16-year-old daughter of David and Carol Young, Peach Bottom. She helps with relief milking and feeds calves on the family's Red Knob Farm operated in partnership by her dad and uncle. They milk 420 head, raise an additional 400 young stock, and farm 400 acres.

During the Saturday evening pageant, the two contestants performed a skit and answered an impromptu question.

In her prepared skit, Elisa dressed in a trench coat as detective Bovine in search of the Great Milk Mystery. Shining a flashlight in the darkened stage, Elisa search-

More Udderly Fantastic Recipes

Milk, nature's most natural beverage, is "udderly" fantastic in its adaptation to so many different ways to use it.

Cheese, sour cream, butter, cream, ice cream, yogurt. . .the list goes on. Then you can take any one or several of these products and concoct "udderly" delicious entrees, appetizers, desserts, salads, snacks, and other beverages.

Readers who've entered Lancaster Farming's annual Dairy Recipe Drawing by sending in their favorite dairy recipes illustrate just how versatile milk is in cooking. But, you'll never know how delicious these recipes are until you try them.

MAKE AHEAD POTATOES

10 potatoes, peeled, quartered
1 cup sour cream
8-ounces cream cheese, softened
6 tablespoons butter, divided
2 tablespoons dried minced onion
½ -1 teaspoon salt
Paprika

Place potatoes in Dutch oven or large kettle; cover with water and boil. Reduce heat; cover and cook 20-25 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Drain and place in a bowl; mash. Add sour cream, cream cheese, 4 tablespoons butter, onion, and salt; stir until smooth and the cream cheese and butter are melted. Spread in a greased 13x9-inch baking dish. Melt remaining butter; drizzle over potatoes. Sprinkle with paprika. Refrigerate or bake immediately, covered, at 350 degrees for 40 minutes; uncover and bake 20 minutes longer. If potatoes are made ahead and refrigerated, let stand at room temperature for 30 minutes before baking. Yield: 12 servings.

I enjoy life on the farm with my husband and daughter. I like recipes with dairy products because they are always sure to please my family. This recipe has been requested at family gatherings since the first time I made it. Hope you enjoy it too.

RICE CUSTARD CAKE

1½ cups rice
2 cups water
4 cups milk
2 eggs
⅓ cup sugar
¼ cup butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
Nutmeg

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cook rice in water about 3 minutes. Drain and rinse. In a large pot, cook milk and rice over medium heat. Stir to keep rice from sticking to the bottom of pot. Remove from heat when rice mixture is loosely thick, about 15 minutes. Beat eggs well. Add a little of the rice mixture to the beaten eggs. Add the eggs to the rice mixture and blend. Add the sugar, butter, and vanilla to blend. Pour the mixture into a buttered 7x11-inch oven-proof baking dish. Sprinkle top with nutmeg. Bake 25 minutes until lightly browned. Cool in pan. Cut into serving portions.

I grew up on a large dairy farm in New England and my grandmother clipped this recipe from a newspaper. Now my family enjoys it. My husband works for the local milk cooperative as a field man and I care for my sons Matthew, 8, and Brian, 6. I love to cook and also spend time with the boys at Little League games.

ed for clues of the mysterious creature that produces a life sustaining substance for humans. A substance humans cannot live without, as evidence by humans attacked by the life-crippling disease osteoporosis when deprived of the substance.

After locating milk and its life-giving vitamins and milk, Elisa reminded the audience to always look for the "REAL" seal as many are trying to imitate the life-giving beverage.

Elizabeth, dressed as a cheerleader, found lots of things to cheer about in milk that produces strong, healthy bones.

The impromptu question presented to both candidates was worded: "From the advantage point of being raised on a farm, what characteristic or trait do you see as the most valuable needed by today's youth?"

Ironically, both candidates, unknown to each other, answered "responsibility."

Elisa explained that growing up on a farm, she had a job to do. No matter what, the cows needed to be milked.

Elizabeth said that she learned responsibility on the farm because "you can't let an animal down. You must do your chores and there is no way out of it."

In addition to the princess and alternate, the milk promotion team this year includes four ambassa-

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

Summer is not a good time for me to buy an interesting book as I can't find time to look at it. But, that is just what I did. A book called "Lancaster County Postcards" has just been published and I had to have one.

It is a hardback book with 500 cards, some of them are in color. Lancaster County has been divided into six chapters and of course the area in which I live is the most interesting to me. However, I've only scanned the big book.

Both my mother and my husband's mother saved many of the cards that they received in the mail from 1901 to about 1915. These cards have one cent postage stamps and include many views. Some were of local industries, some of trolleys, and some of local activities like parades. Of course, there were many bright colored greeting cards for every holiday too. Some even included sequins. One group of cards were made of leather and one was designated for each day of the week.

Messages were written on both the back and on the front. Many had simple messages like, "Meet you at the trolley Friday night." Or, "Come for dinner on Sunday and bring Uncle Jake."

As the book, published by Lancaster County Postal Club, states, these cards are a "window to our past." Many buildings and bridges no longer exist. They have been replaced and only pictures remind us of the past.

Some people save things while others keep nothing. If you are interested in history, as I am, then you save everything. Actually, I'm glad my ancestors did save many of their important and unimportant papers.

Hey, all you dads out there.

Happy Father's Day. We love you, dads. We don't say that enough, probably.

That said, I'm going to mess around with a holiday again.

Happy Mother's Day.

Or to be more specific, Happy Mother's Birthday.

Happy Mother's Birthday to my mom, who turns 80 tomorrow.

At 80, Mom is in relatively good health, works outside in her garden nearly every nice day this time of year and is still a super cook. Her biggest concerns are for her family and friends, whom she devotedly worries about over things great and small.

When I was 12, she went to work after having spent most of her married life up to that time as a full-time homemaker and mother, there to see us four off in the morning and welcome us as we came tromping in the front door from the school bus. For the next 30 years, she then helped to clothe the country, as a professional seamstress in our area's then thriving garment industry, doing specialized detail work on finer women's wear.

Even today, family and friends with unique tailoring needs often find their way to her door, where she claims the challenge of creative clothing alterations keeps her mind sharp. Her life has not been without tragedy, having nursed my dad through a couple of years of terminal cancer, plus losing a daughter, a grandson, and several close relatives and friends. Nevertheless, she is always quick to acknowledge that one must accept God's will and look for divine guidance to get through whatever life tosses at us.

Several years ago, a friend included in his Christmas card a salute to turning 80, with the personal notation that he wasn't there yet, but was "closing in." It seems appropriate for the occasion.

Life at 80
Frank Laubach

"I have good news for you. The first 80 years are the hardest. The second 80 are a succession of birthday parties.

"Once you reach 80, everyone wants to carry your baggage and help you up the steps. If you forget your name or anybody else's, or an appointment, or your own telephone number, or promise to be three places at the same time, or can't remember how many grandchildren you have, you need only explain that you are 80.

"Being 80 is a lot better than being 70. At 70, people are mad at you for everything. At that age they expect you to retire to a house in Florida and complain about your arthritis (they used to call it lumbago) and you ask everybody to stop mumbling because you can't understand them. (Actually your hearing is about 50 percent gone).

"At 80, you have a perfect excuse no matter what you do. If you act foolishly, it's your second childhood. Everybody is looking for symptoms of softening of the brain.

"If you survive until you're 80, everybody is surprised that you are still alive. They treat you with respect just for having lived so long. Actually, they seem surprised that you can walk and talk sensibly.

"So, please folks, try to make it to 80. It's the best time of life. People forgive you for anything. If you ask me, life begins at 80.

So, Mom enjoy this latest beginning of life. At 80.

Happy Mom's Birthday.

Love from us all.

And ditto to all you dads.

Cover Your Bases

In baseball, a winning strategy is to make sure all the players in the field are protecting their particular turf. In your family financial situation, making sure your bases are covered means you've planned for most eventualities. You've set money aside for long-term goals such as college education and retirement. You've set short-time goals like vacations and gifts for December holidays of birthdays. You've purchased life insurance and are covered with health insurance through you job. Your home is adequately covered with fire and even flood insurance. For all intents, you think your vases are covered. What's missing? Long-term Disability Insurance.

Man employers provide short-term disability insurance, anywhere from 40 percent to 60 percent of your salary for a limited period of time, say six months. this is helpful in many situations, but sometimes injuries last longer than six months, sometimes for the rest of the worker's life. Long term disability helps make up a portion of the lost salary for the disabled worker. In choosing disability insurance, choose one that will pick up after any short-term disability coverage is depleted.

More Udderly Fantastic Recipes From Readers

Dorothy and Glenn Gainer, Holtwood, sent in a recipe for creamy banana dessert.

CREAMY BANANA DESSERT

1½ cups Post nuts brand cereal
¼ cup melted butter
2 tablespoons honey
2 medium bananas, sliced
1 package (4 serving size) vanilla flavor pudding and pie filling
½ cup instant nonfat dry milk
1¾ cups water
8-ounce package cream cheese, cut in cubes

Combine cereal, butter, and honey and spread ⅔ of the mixture in the bottom of an 8-inch square pan.

Arrange bananas on cereal mixture. Combine pudding and nonfat dry milk in saucepan and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat and beat with a wire whish until smooth.

We have a dairy and have lived in Oregon about 25 years. Each of our sons are involved in the dairy between college and school. We receive Lancaster Farming from my dad each year. We were formerly from Lititz and Willow Street so it's fun to keep up with the Lancaster news.

We love this Halibut chowder, which comes from our friends who live in Alaska. We were fortunate to be able to visit them in 1996 and enjoyed lots of delicious food and scenery.

Love this recipe section.

Baking is not a chore to me. It is one of my most favorite hobbies, which include gardening, playing piano, and doing crafts with my two grandsons. Growing up, my mother was my inspiration in the kitchen. It took me a while to master her super gooey shoo fly pie. Now it's a specialty of mine. The first thing she taught me in the kitchen was to make a perfect pie crust. Thanks Mother—I owe it all to you.

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — "The best is riding tractor," said 8-year-old Kelly Spore, Lititz.

Many of the approximately 8,000 kids attending Family Dairy Days at Oregon Dairy on Tuesday-Thursday agreed.

The children of JoBeth and Cliff Weaver, Blake, 3, Evan, 5, and Morgan, 2, each had a favorite activity on the farm. Blake preferred the tractors, Evan liked face painting, and their sister the cows. A three-day-old calf was tame enough for the children to pet.

Nine-year-old Lisa Hershey thought the hay maze was the most fun.

"The food is the best," said Chad Newcomer, Mount Joy, as he licked a chocolate ice cream cone.

Two brothers from West Africa, Steven and Daniel Walters, were visiting with grandparents in the area and stopped by the farm. Parents Kevin and Colleen Walters said ice cream doesn't taste this good in Africa.

Steven and Daniel also loved the tractors.

Blake, 3, Evan, 5, and Morgan, 2, pet a three-day-old calf.

Dairy Darling Hannah Wentworth offers "I love milk" and "got milk?" stickers and pencils.

"The best is riding tractor," said 8-year-old Kelly Spore, Lititz.

Steven and Daniel Walters from Africa enjoy the free ice cream.

Consuming Thoughts

American adults are certainly becoming more aware of cholesterol and its relationship to coronary heart disease. But at risk of developing heart disease later in life because of excess cholesterol is another group—children.

An increased level of cholesterol, a soft fat-like substance found in the bloodstream, is a major risk factor for developing disease of the heart and blood vessels. Some studies suggest that children with high blood cholesterol levels continue to have them into adulthood unless steps are taken to lower those levels through diet.

Cholesterol is found among the fats in the bloodstream. As cholesterol builds up on the inner lining of blood vessels, those vessels can narrow and even close, keeping oxygen-carrying blood from getting to the heart. The result can be severe chest pain and eventual heart attack.

According to the American Heart Association (AHA) atherosclerosis (narrowing of the arteries) may begin in childhood and progress throughout young adulthood.

How can you tell if your child is at risk for developing heart disease?

First, look at your family's history of heart disease. If you, your spouse or your child's grandparents have heart disease or high cholesterol levels, chances are your child will, too. So have your child's cholesterol level checked by a doctor.

Routine screenings for cholesterol levels are not recommended for children—only those with a family history of heart disease. But the AHA urges that all American adults have regular screenings for cholesterol levels and other risk factors beginning at age 20.

Figures show that about five percent of 5-to 18-year-old American children have cholesterol levels that exceed 200 mg/dl. The AHA recommends that all American children gradually decrease their intake of cholesterol and saturated fat. The Association first advised physicians in 1978 that children from high-risk families be placed on low-fat diets if they were found to have excessive cholesterol or fat in their blood.

To reduce cholesterol and provide for a healthful lifestyle in children over the age of two, the AHA recommends:

- helping them maintain a desirable body weight through a diet that consists of a variety of foods. Children's caloric needs vary according to age and activity;
- reducing total fat by using low fat milk and dairy products, including lean meat, fish, and chicken;
- increasing total carbohydrate intake by including at least six servings of grains, breads, and cereals and at least four servings of fruits and vegetables (the serving size depends on the age of the child) and;
- maintaining a regular exercise program.

Remember the above recommendations are for children over the age of two. Do not decrease fat levels for children under that age. Also, it is very important to discuss all nutritional changes with your physician.

Developing good lifestyle habits now can help your child lead a healthier life.

From left, Earla Rutt, Linda Gerlach, Bonnie Hoover, and Carolyn Hurst talk about "the hungry reading," the newly released LAMS Cookbook creates. Pictured are a few of the dishes they stirred up from the more than 700 recipes included in the cookbook. The tasty collection includes Cappuccino, Swedish Eggs, Pumpkin Waffle Pies, Strawberry Pie, and Cherry Cream Torte.

Cookbook Debuts At School Auction

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — A new cookbook celebrating 20 years in Christian education has been released just in time for the Lititz Area Mennonite School (LAMS) Benefit Auction, June 25-26.

The 300-page cookbook with more than 700 recipes will be sold for $12 each at the auction to be held on the school grounds, 1050 E. Newport Rd., Lititz.

The cookbook committee — Carolyn Hurst, Earla Rutt, Linda Gerlach, and Nina Evangelista — worked several months collecting and proofreading recipes from patrons and relatives.

Linda said that she worked until 11 p.m. and was up at 3 a.m. to meet the deadline for mailing the recipes to the Iowa publishing house.

It was the committee's job to examine the recipes and watch for duplicates.

"It made for some very hungry reading," Linda said. The most popular category, she believes, was breakfast.

"It was fun and we learned a lot," said Carolyn. The committee members agreed that they would be qualified to do a much more efficient job if they would do another cookbook, but they are pleased with the spiral-bound cookbook and the easy-to-read recipes.

Profits from the cookbook will go toward new playground equipment for the school.

As usual, the school auction will offer good food, beautiful quilts, collector items, and activities for children.

The auction, which begins with a chicken barbecue at 3 p.m. on Friday, June 25, will serve dinners on site and takeouts until 7 p.m.

From 6 p.m. until 8 p.m., Winross trucks and collectibles will be auctioned and items to be auctioned the following day will be on display. Ken Harding, an illusionist, will hold a program for children at 7:30 p.m.

Saturday begins with an "all you can eat" country buffet breakfast served from 6:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m.

The auction begins at 9 a.m. with a wide variety of items including crafts, baskets, pottery, Beanie babies, wooden items, and lawn and garden items.

Artwork will be auctioned at noon. Bonnie Hoover, publicity chairperson for the auction, said, "This year LAMS has put together a wonderful collection of art."

The collection includes "The Garden of Prayer," by Thomas Kinkade, "The Herb Shop," by Debra Smith, "Skipping Rope," by Jim Daly, "Full Bloom" by Andy Smith, "Signs of Spring," by Rosene Hollinger, and paintings by Sandra Roland, Stephen Leed, Linda Daniels, Donald Patterson, Jim Lamb, Richard Bollinger, and more.

At 12:30 p.m., special items to be sold are a Benjamin Brubaker handcrafted doll house and a hand painted butter churn by Elva Hurst. Quilts and wall hangings will be auctioned at 1 p.m. with designs such as Log Cabin, Fan, Broken Star, appliqued Mini Country Love, Bargello, Colorado Star/ Log Cabin, Cornerstone Star, and Dresden Plate.

Bonnie said patrons of the school work together to make the auction enjoyable for all ages. Children's activities begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday. These include crafts to make, fish toss, moonwalk, face painting, and other games.

The school is located at 1050 E. Newport Rd., Lititz. For more information, call the school at (717) 626-9551.

Cookbooks are also available by mailorder. Send $15, which covers the cookbook plus shipping, to LAMS, 1050 E. Newport Rd., Lititz, PA 17543.

Here are some recipes featured in the cookbook and pictured in the photo.

Tribute To Dad

The Day Dad Shaped My Character

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.) — Sometimes I wonder what kind of person I would be today if, on one particular occasion, my dad had not turned me across his knees and spanked me hard with his big open palm.

I was about eight or nine, when I got into trouble over an incident which, with parental authority, Dad handled immediately.

It was a spanking meant to shape my character and it did. In fact, decades later, I'm still very aware of the impact it had on my life.

I had lied when Dad asked about an incident he suspected involved me. I was trying, as best as any kid could, to cover my tracks but to no avail.

A fancy trinket belonging to someone else had captured my heart. It was something I coveted. One day there was opportunity to take it.

In a very short time all evidence of its disappearance pointed to me. Gently, Dad asked me if it happened to be in my possession.

Although it was hidden in a corner of the bureau drawer upstairs in my bedroom, my reply was: "No Daddy, I don't have it."

I had begun to tremble inside even if I didn't understand the Bible teaches: "Be sure your sin will find you out."

Dad checked out other possibilities and returned.

He seemed determined to uncover the truth. As the channels of escape were fast closing, I found myself really squirming. A disastrous conclusion seemed inevitable.

Finally, I acknowledged my guilt.

What followed was the most onerous task I think I've ever done. I still recall it with mortification.

Dad made me stand and look into the face of the person I had wronged and confess that I'd taken something of hers. I had to say I was sorry and ask her to forgive me.

I almost could not get through the experience. She was an adult and I, a child. I remember how my throat constricted and the words got stuck. I was utterly ashamed.

The heart-shaped locket bracelet that earlier had seemed so desirable suddenly turned ugly.

We may have stood 10 minutes while I choked and gagged over the words. Dad wouldn't budge until I said them.

She forgave me.

With Dad, I walked back to our house. The exercise, I naively though had completed the awful punishment. How wrong I was.

"Because you lied to me," Dad continued, "I must also spank you."

"No, Daddy!" I shrieked. "Please don't spank me."

That's when he, too, began to cry and tell me how he loved me and how much it hurt him to discipline me in that way.

Despite my sniffles he was unmoved. Yet his unwavering affection for me was unquestioned. Later, he would hug me.

Had I been honest at the outset the whole business would have been over in moments.

After I was grown, there was another experience with Dad that I will never forget.

On that occasion he was a peacemaker in my defense when someone was bitterly angry with me.

By his stoic example, there came forgiveness, healing, and restoration between all parties.

"Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called the children of God." Matthew 5:9.

Dad died in 1994 at age 88.

The character he built in me, however, has carried over to the generation that follows — my children.

Thank you, God, for my dad.

Gay Brownlee and dad Walter A. Killius eventually learned to laugh about the incident that caused such pain in childhood.

'Daddy's Little Princess' Grows Up

Bradford County Dairy Princess Jackie Rae Schriner, writes, "When I was 12 years old I watched my older sister Tracey run for Lycoming County dairy princess. As I watched her work and prepare, I wished I was in her shoes. What more could a farm girl, like me want more that to say I'm daddy's little dairy princess.

"Although my mom and dad always said I didn't need a crown because in their eyes I was a princess, I had to show them how dedicated I really am to the farm and dairy princess.

"For five long years I dreamed of having the title as a dairy princess, and how I would make my daddy proud of my hard work to promote the product he, along with other dairy farmers, work hard to produce, milk.

"Every time I'd think and dream, the more it felt like a fairytale. You know, a young girl, who wears the pretty dresses, pretty jewelry, a big smile, and of course, that sparkling crown, sitting on shiny golden hair.

Bradford County dairy princess Jackie Rae Schriner dreamed for years of making her daddy proud.

"So, now five years later I am part of that fairytale. I have worked so hard, for so long to gain more knowledge to teach young and old of the dairy industry. I wanted to make my daddy proud. I know I didn't have to make him proud by winning a crown, but I think he is very proud. Yes, of course I am proud to have fulfilled my dreams, but he is proud in a different sense. I don't think I could sit here and try to explain it to you, so next time you see him make sure you make eye contact with him when you talk. His eyes have that little twinkle that says it all.

"With that in mind I must say that my wildest dream has come true. though it wouldn't have if we didn't have dairy farmers.

So, to all of you dairy farmers "Keep up the good work! And thank you for making my dream come true; to all of my friends for your support. To Mable Wilson, the dairy princess coordinator, for working hard to set up the pageant, and for believing in me. And to my family, for all your encouragement, support, and the smiles that made me believe I can do anything. Every person in my life is precious to me.

"My goal as the 1999-2000 Bradford County dairy princess is to support and promote the number one industry in Pennsylvania through my hard work and dedication. Thank you to every one who has helped me make my dream come true. All my achievements are for you!

FRESH SUMMER BERRY TART

Sweet Butter Crust:
2-1/2 cups all purpose flour
1/4 cup granulated sugar
1 cup (2 sticks) unsaled butter, cut into small chunks
2 egg yolks (reserve whites for brushing on tart)
1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon almond extract

Berry Filling:
1 pint each: blackberries and raspberries (about 5 cups)
2/3 cup plus 1 tablespoon sugar, reserved
2-1/2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 grated rind and juice of medium lemon
2 tablespoons melted unsalted butter
confectioner's sugar

For crust: Place flour, sugar and butter in food processor or mixing bowl. Mix until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add egg yolks and almond extract. Mix until a ball is formed. Shape dough into 2 flat rounds. Wrap in plastic wrap and refrigerate for at least 2 hours or overnight.

For filling: In large bowl, combine berries, 2/3 cup sugar, flour, lemon rind and juice. toss tently. Add melted butter.

Preheat oven to 375°F

On a lightly floured surface, roll out half of pastry to an 11-inch circle. Transfer pastry to a 10-inch tart pan with a removable bottom. Press pastry gently into pan. Trim any excess dough. Spoon berry filling to make an even layer.

Roll out remaining dough to 10-inch circle. Cut pastry into 10 to 12 strips about 1/2-inch wide. Place strips on top of filling in a lattice fashion, pressing edges of dough to seal. Lightly beat egg whites. Brush on lattice strips. Sprinkle with remaining 1 tablespoon sugar. Place tart on baking sheet. Bake until crust is golden brown, 40 to 45 minutes. Removed to cooling rack. Cool completely. Sprinkle with confectioner's sugar before serving. Makes 8 servings.

Family Dairy Days

Six-year-old Tyler Waltz liked tractors so much, he wanted one painted on his face. Lancaster Chamber employees Karen Manning and Alicia Horst fulfilled his and many other kid's requests.

Kids enjoyed the tire swings, climbed the playhouse, watched chicks hatching, admired the white-tail deer, goats, and just running around the farm.

Not all kids were playing during the three-day event. Some, such as Dairy Darling Hannah Wentworth, were handing out "I love milk" and "got milk?" stickers and pencils.

Loren Hershey, 4-H'er, served as a tour guide on some of the many hay ride wagons. Kids, parents, and grandparents boarded the wagons at the market and rode to the adjoining farm. The tractor drove through the 400-foot-long barn so that people could view how cows live in the modern barns at Oregon Dairy Farm. According to Loren, the farm has 200 acres and an additional 200 acres of ground is rented. A manure pipeline transports manure to a methane digester where the gas from it is used to spin a turbine.

Family Dairy Days is held in conjunction with National Dairy Month. The purpose is to educate the community on how a dairy farm is run and to celebrate the importance of dairy to the economy. For the third year the event has been sponsored by The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry with Oregon Dairy. But it took 40-50 volunteers from Chamber staff, ag industry leaders, 4-H'ers, and others to help out with the three day event, held from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Chester County Holds Dairy Princess Pageant

PARKESBURG (Chester Co.) — Pageantry and poise filled the air as nine young ladies took the stage for the selection and recognition of the Chester County Dairy Royalty. On Saturday, June 5, at the West Fallowfield Community Center, Amanda Grossman of Parkesburg was chosen as the 1999 Chester County Dairy Princess. Julie Sollenberger, Spring City, will serve as Alternate Dairy Princess.

Amanda is the daughter of Tom and Tracy Grossman, Parkesburg, and Debra and Geoff Simmons, Atglen. She is a student at Octorara Area High School where she is very involved in music, Spanish, tennis, and tutoring. She works on her father's Quakerwood Farm, milking Holsteins. Amanda gave a creative presentation to the audience of family and friends, showing the need for calcium in our diets. Each of the basic food groups supply calcium, but the best source is the dairy group.

Julie is the daughter of David and Holly Sollenberger of Spring City. She attends Owen J. Robert's High School where she serves as FFA chapter vice president and is on the lacrosse team. She owns 15 dairy cows of Guernsey, Jersey and Holstein breeds and is a member of those breed Associations. For her creative presentation, Julie was dressed in a lab coat working on creating a new beverage packed with nutrients and flavor. What she discovered was a product that has been available for years and is still full of nutrition and good taste.

A panel of three judges including Carol Hoover, Gap; Bonnie Wentworth, Quarryville; and Charles Gable, Elverson; interviewed the contestants which was the basis for their judging as well as the presentation and an impromptu question. Penn State Extension Dairy Agent Steve Deitrich served as Master of Ceremonies for the pageant.

Reigning over the pageant was Cynthia Grossman, 1998 Chester County Dairy Princess. She served for a full year in which she spoke to more than 9,000 consumers about dairy nutrition and the importance of dairy farming in this area. In her farewell speech, she graciously thanked her family and those that assisted in making it a successful year for her.

The pageant also recognized as Dairy Ambassador Betsy Young of West Grove; who gave a speech about the Ayrshire and Brown Swiss cows on her farm. Serving as Dairy Maid this year will be Betsy Brown, Glen Moore; Christy Guest, Pottstown; Erica Laffey, Cochranville; and Becky Nolan, Cochranville. These young ladies will attend promotion events along with the princess and alternate, serving ice cream, meeting people, and handing out dairy information materials at schools, stores, and recreation events.

Blair County Selects Heather Hoover

CURRYVILLE (Blair Co.) -- The 1998 Blair County Dairy Princess Amanda Sollenberger crowned Heather Hoover of Tyrone Rd. as the 1999-2000 Blair County Dairy Princess on Saturday, May 29, at the Williamsburg Elementary School.

Angela Sollenberger of Curryville was crowned the Blair County Alternate Princess.

Heather is the 18-year-old daughter of D. Michael and Carol Hoover of C&M Rippling Run Dairy Farm of Tyrone and Angela is the 16-year-old daughter of Gerald and Jean Sollenberger of Sollenberger Farms in Curryville. Together these two young ladies, along with a team of dairy maids and dairy misses will spread the story of milk from farm to consumer and promote real dairy products throughout Blair County.

The evening began with a welcome from master of ceremonies Jake Snyder and the introduction of each of the contestants. Heather was escorted by her father, Mike Hoover, and Angela was escorted by her mother, Jean Sollenberger. The reigning Blair County Princess was introduced and welcomed to the stage. Both of the contestants were then dismissed to prepare for the creative presentation portion of the competition.

Heather, who is a senior at Tyrone High School, gave a speech entitled "Osteoporosis" and Angela, a sophomore at Central High School, gave a creative skit entitled "Milk: Our Secret Weapon." Heather's speech was geared toward an adult female audience, while Angela's skit was geared toward elementary aged students.

During the break between presentations and the contestants return to the stage, the junior promoters were introduced and given their sashes. Then the popular "Parade of Future Dairy Princesses" featuring the little girls between the ages of 4-8, began. This year's parade included Danessa Bigelow, daughter of David and Patricia Bigelow, Sr. of Williamsburg; Kirstin Bigelow, daughter of Randy and Twila Bigelow of Williamsburg; Jessica Waltermire, daughter of Craig and Karen Waltermire of Williamsburg; Tara Brumbaugh, daughter of Martin and Diana Brumbaugh of Curryville, and Caroline Smith, daughter of Douglas and Veronica Smith of Martinsburg. Each "Future Princess" received a sunflower bouquet.

Blair County is well prepared for dairy promotion with this team. Kneeling from left are Tara Brumbaugh, Daness Bigelow, and Kristin Bigelow. Standing are Caroline Smith, Jessica Waltermire, and Blair County Dairy Princess Heather Hoover, and Danielle Bigelow. Back, from left, are Angela Sollenberger, Amanda Sollenberger, Diana Bigelow, and Tracy Bigelow.

The Princess contestants then returned to the stage for an impromptu question. Heather's question was "What do you think is the greatest problem facing the youth of today?" She responded that she felt that it was peer pressure and the kids need to be encouraged to stand up for what they believe is right, even if it is unpopular. And that a true friend will stick by you no matter what.

Angela's question was "What do you think is your greatest accomplishment in life and why?" Angela responded that she felt her greatest accomplishment was her ability to tell people how she truly feels, gently but honestly. And that she feels people understand that she is a fair and honest person.

Following the contestants' impromptu questions, the three judges were dismissed to discuss their selection for princess and alternate. Kristin Russell, dairy princess coordinator, made comments about the activities of the Promotion Committee and the 1998 Dairy Princess and awarded Amanda with a gift from the committee. Amanda gave her teary farewell remarks, commenting that she had a great year and would greatly miss her activities as dairy princess.

When the judges returned, Jake Snyder introduced the crowd on hand to the 1999-2000 Blair County Alternate Dairy Princess, Angela Sollenberger and the 1999-2000 Blair County Dairy Princess, Heather Hoover.

After the crowning, Heather was given an opportunity to address the group. She thanked the judges for the opportunity to serve as dairy princess and promised to try to do her best to fulfill the role. Judges for the evening were Jan Itle, of Valewood Farms in Cambria County; Andrew Krug from Purina, also of Cambria County; and Mary Beth Lieb, member of the Cambria County Dairy Promotion Committee.

Assisting Heather and Angela in promotions this year will be two dairy maids and three dairy misses. Diana Bigelow, 15, and Tracy Bigelow, 13, both daughters of Richard and Cindy Bigelow of Dippy Acres Farm in Williamsburg will serve as dairy maids.

Dairy Misses are girls between the ages of 9-12 and this is the first year for the Blair County to have a dairy miss program. Serving in this capacity are: Emily Baker, daughter of James and Anita Baker of Martinsburg; Danielle Bigelow, daughter of Randy and Twila Bigelow of Williamsburg.

Summer Assistants Help Extension Programs

ELIZABETH SMITH
Lancaster 4-H
Summer Assistant

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Once again the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Offices are being invaded by college students filling positions of summer assistants. Over the summer as Cooperative Extension programs pick-up, extension agents rely on summer assistants to lighten the workload and help plan and coordinate events.

This summer four summer assistants are working with the Lancaster Cooperative Extension. Elizabeth Smith is returning this year as the 4-H Summer Assistant. Working with Katina Showman she will be helping with summer events such as 4-H Camp and 4-H Fair. Elizabeth attends Penn State Harrisburg and will be graduating in May majoring in communications.

Also returning this year is Paula Marshall, working as the 4-H Urban Summer Assistant with Nancy Wiker. Paula works with the youth of Lancaster County, centering her program around the different foods and cultures of the world. A star member of Lebanon Valley College field hockey team, Paula will be graduating in May 2001, with a psycho-biology degree. This year's animal science summer assistant is Suzanne Bishard. Suzanne just completed her junior year at Delaware Valley College and will be entering into Purdue University in the fall under their early acceptance program, majoring in veterinary sciences. Part of Suzanne's responsibilities this summer will be organizing skill-a-thons for the livestock and dairy programs and assisting Lori Little and Chet Hughes with other 4-H events. Filling the position of the horticulture summer assistant this year is Derek Stoner. Derek attends the University of Delaware majoring in Natural Resource Management and will be graduating in Spring 2000. Working with Tim Elkner, Derek will be assisting with various programs over the summer, such as strawberry research.

We have been married for six years and have a daughter, Rachel, 2½ , and a Border Collie, Bucky.

We operate a 250-head dairy farm in Union Bridge, Md. We milk 112 cows. Mike is a third-generation dairy farmer on this farm. Rachel enjoys helping feed the calves and other farm chores. She just loves to play with her dog, chase the barn cats, and help her mommy, Julie, with whatever needs to be done.

This cheesecake recipe was given to me by my mother-in-law. We have to laugh every time I make this, because Mike never used to eat it until he tried it. Now he asks for it and it doesn't last three days!

Very delicious on hot summer days. Easy recipe to double or triple.

We enjoy this refreshing drink on hot summer days while baling hay or out in the fields.

My husband does baling for neighbors so I ususally take him supper. This is one drink he always enjoys. We live in Manheim. My husband also helps his dad on the farm.

I really enjoy all the recipes in the "Lancaster Farming." That is usually the first part I read.

My family and I live on a hog farm in Juniata County. Our operation includes a farrow to feed pig unit, corn, wheat, and hay crops, and two German Shepherds and one Saint Bernard dog.

We have two married daughters, one daughter in Voluntary Service in West. Va. and a 10-year-old son. I enjoy flower gardening, sewing, and helping my husband around the farm.

Growing up on a dairy farm, I learned the value of including milk and milk products in our diet. Our favorite dairy product is ice cream.

BROCCOLI-POTATO-CHEESE SOUP

1½ cups chopped onions
4 tablespoons butter
6 cups water
5 chicken bouillon cubes
8-ounces fine noodles
2 or 3 potatoes, finely cubed
1 can chicken broth
1 small head broccoli, cut into small pieces OR 10-ounces frozen broccoli
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
2 cups mik
4 cups half and half
1 pound Velveeta cheese, cubed

Saute onions in butter in large soup pot. Add water and bouillon cubes. Heat to boiling and stir until cubes are dissolved. Add the noodles and cook three minutes.

In separate pan, cook broccoli and potatoes in chicken broth until done. Do not drain. Add to noodle mixture. Add garlic powder and cook until noodles are done. Add the milk, half and half, and cheese. Heat until cheese is melted but do not boil.

If not thick enough, add small amount of corn starch to small amount of milk, and stir into soup for desired consistency.

Ken and his son, Jim, farm about 2,000 acres. They grow corn, wheat, oats, alfalfa, and soybeans. They also milk 130 Holsteins and raise beef cattle.

I do the cooking, usually feeding 4 or 5 but in busier times, we might have 8 to 12 for lunch every day. I love to cook. Desserts are my specialty. Soups are great for a large group and this soup I got good comments on. It was two recipes that I combined and kept working on the ingredients and amounts until I got it just right. Hope others like it as much as we do:

Ken is hoping his grandson, Nicholas, age 21 months, will become the fourth generation farmer on this family farm.

I enjoy "Home On The Range," and "Cook's Question" all the time, but the June Dairy Month articles are my favorite. Lots of good recipes to try.

This recipe is all the rage in this area just now! And no wonder — it's so good that you've just gotta sneak a second helping.

We're alive and healthy here at the Martin house. We hope to can lots of things this summer. The garden things are up and the battle of the weeds is on!

TAPIOCA PUDDING

⅓ cup sugar
3 tablespoons tapioca
2¾ cups milk
1 egg, well beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix sugar, tapioca, milk, and egg in saucepan; let stand 5 minutes. Stirring constantly, cook on medium heat until mixture comes to full boil. (Pudding thickens as it cools.)

Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla. Cool 20 minutes; stir. Spoon into dishes. Serve warm or chilled. Store leftover pudding in refrigerator. Makes 6 servings.

For creamier pudding, place plastic wrap on surface of pudding while cooling. Stir.

I made a double batch of tapioca pudding for us and put it in footed-dessert dishes. Food tastes better when served in a footed dish. My grandchildren can hold it nicely to eat it, too.

I'm 68 years old. We live on a farm here in the southernmost tip of York county. I enjoy your newspaper and all the good recipes.

Strawberries go well with desserts right now, as I have noticed the robins and chipmunks have found our strawberry patches. Farmers need guns. We put netting on the newest patch. My husband's a good shot.

Sometimes I sit back and reminisce about all the food the cows' milk was used for at our home. We all like our ice creams and cheeses.

Once we had a cow, a Holstein, that always gave much milk and would have twin calves. Her name was Blim. The Guernsey that was a wedding gift from my husband's uncle was called "Guernsey," but she had to wear kickers for us to milk her. We made butter, cheese custards, onion pies, elderberry pies, egg custards, hot milk cake, cocoa, and used milk in our meadow tea and coffee drinks. It's amazing what all we can use milk for in our kitchens and homes.

I have three daughters, 10 grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

You must really enjoy your "fan mail." Best wishes!

WATERMELON COOKIES

1 cup butter, softened (no substitutes)
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
3 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup (8 ounces) sour cream
1 can (12 ounces) whipped vanilla frosting
Red and green food coloring
Minature chocolate chips

In a mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar. Add eggs and vanilla; mix well. Combine flour, baking soda, and salt; add to the creamed mixture alternately with the sour cream. Cover and refrigerate for two hours or overnight.

On a heavily floured surface, roll out half of the dough at a time to ⅛-inch thickness. Cut with a 3-inch round cookie cutter; cut circles in half.

Place on ungreased baking sheets. Bake at 375 degrees for 9-10 minutes or until bottoms are lightly browned and cookes are set. Cool on wire racks.

Place two-thirds of the frosting in a bowl; add red coloring to the remaining frosting. Spread pink frosting on tops of cookies. Frost the edges with green frosting using a pastry bag with a small star tip if desired. Place chocolate chips randomly over the pink frosting for seeds. Yields about 8½ dozen.

My name is Jennifer Hoke. I am a 22-year-old physical therapy major currently attending College Misericordia, Wilks Barre. When not at school, I live with my parents and three younger sisters in Spring Grove. We live on a small farm with cows, peacocks, turkeys, bunnies, cats, and a rooster. I've grown up all my life around animals and tractors, plowing the fields and harvesting the crops. I will graduate next year and hope to continue living in the beautiful open country with a garden and animals of my own.

I have often read "Lancaster Farming" in search of new recipes to try. I love to be daring and try new flavor combinations (even if my family doesn't always agree). While searching, I saw the photo of Ms. Good that accompanied the contest article. It reminded me of my younger sister and the cow decorated items that she has collected in her younger life. What a wonderful surprise it would be for her to win such lovely items only by having entered one of her and my favorite dessert recipes.

One More Day Of Summer Fund Added To The 1999 Maryland State Fair

The 118th Maryland State Fair, a sure bet for summer food, fun and celebration, has added one more day and more new shows and exhibits.

This 11-day festival, complete with home arts exhibits, livestock and horse shows, midway rides and games, live entertainment and thoroughbred horse racing opens Friday, Aug. 27 and runs through Monday, Sept. 6, 10 a.m. - 10 p.m. at the Timonium Fairgrounds in Baltimore County.

Early risers are welcome to attend livestock and horse shows at 9 a.m. Exhibit hall hours are 10 a.m. - 10 p.m., and the Midway opens at 10 a.m. on weekends and noon on weekdays. Admission is only $4 for adults and children under 12 are admitted free.

Rides are individually priced. Thoroughbred Horse Racing begins Saturday, Aug. 28 and runs through Labor Day with Post Time at 1 p.m. Additional races will be simulcast from a variety of other tracks. Admission to the race track is included in the admission price of the fair.

The Maryland State Fair is a fun and educational resource complete with daily exhibits and presentations which are sure to captivate visitors of all ages. New this year: A hot-air balloon glow and race; the Birthing Barn in the Cow Palace, where at different times throughout the fair there will be the opportunity to watch the birth of piglets or calves under the supervision of the State Fair's veterinarians; the high flying Max-Air Freestyle Ski Jumping Show; The Baboon Lagoon where Hamadryus baboons will perform a variety of tricks from walking on their hands to riding a miniature scooter; the Dennis Lee Variety Show; and more.

Fairgoers are invited to explore the Farm & Garden, 4-H/Home Arts Building, the Cow Palace, Horse Show Ring, and other agricultural buildings and displays as well as the Exhibition Hall. For wildlife lovers, the State Fair Park will not only provide picnickers plenty of tables and shade, but a chance to see owls, snakes, turtles and other wildlife at the expanded "Scales and Tales" exhibit provided by the Department of Natural Resources.

The State Far is the culmination of more than a year's worth of hard work for 4-H members who will compete in shows and demonstrations throughout the 11 days of the fair. The 4-H Livestock Show will begin Friday, Aug. 27 and run through Sunday, Aug. 29. The 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale is on Sunday, Aug. 29 at 7 p.m. A variety of Open Class livestock shows will open Monday, Aug. 30 and run through Labor Day.

The Midway will provide thrills and chills for the entire family with more than 30 rides. "Kiddie Land" will offer tame but exciting rides, and the Midway promises to thrill even the bravest fairgoers. "Entertainment Row" on the south side of the Exhibition Hall will be the site for a variety of local bands, children's entertainment, and contests.

A wide selection of food will satisfy the spirit as well as the palate. Fairgoers will have the opportunity to enjoy the delightful taste of corn dogs and cotton candy on the Midway, or the traditional flavor of crab cakes, mouth-watering rib-eye steak sandwiches, corn-on-the-cob, fruit, ice cream and many other products fresh from Maryland farms at the Maryland Foods Pavilion.

Parking on the fairgrounds for a minimal fee and free parking at the park and ride location on Deereco Road are available on a first-come, first-serve basis. The fairgrounds encourages use of the Light Rail with an easily accessible Light Rail stop at the Fairgrounds' Cow Palace Gate. For fairgoers' convenience, Carrollton Bank ATM Machines will be located in front of the 4-H Building, the Cow Palace, the Exhibition Hall, and in the center of the Grandstand on the upper and lower levels.

For general information, call (410) 252-0200, ext. 226 or visit the Maryland State Fair web page at www.bcpl.net/~mdstfair.

Reel Time Savings to Real Farmers

"We feed 100 milk cows and a total of 150 animals with four loads per day at three different locations. We save 1½ - 2 hours of feeding time every day with our Knight Reel Auggie tow."

Russ and Kris Schroeder
Agriprize Holsteins – Horicon, Wisconsin

"We feed a total of 140 head with 52 milking. Before our Knight Reel Auggie, feeding a TMR took us 1½ hours twice a day. Now each feeding takes approximately ½ hour."

John and Harry Nooyen
Brabantdale Farms – Narvan, Ontario, Canada

"We feed about 200 head per day with an average of 100 miling. We owned a 4-auger midxer before. Our Knight Reel Auggie has a shorter mixing time with a superior blended ration"

Wayne and Bradley Beidel
Beidel Brothers – Newbury, Pennsylvania

"We mix 5 loads per day to feed 650 head. Our Knight Reel Auggie mixes faster and unloads faster than the auger mixers that we previously owned. Drive through feeding with our tow model has cut our feeding time by two-thirds."

Warren and Dave Otto
Otto Farms – Valders, Wisconsin

The 3000 Series KNIGHT Reel Auggie® is available in tow, truck, and stationary models.

Mixing capacities from 147-600 cubic feet.

She just freshened - How long until she reaches her peak?

Reduce the chance of milk fevers and DA's by targeting each ration to each group of cows. The NDA Vertical Mixer will allow you to cut and blend long-stemmed hay (large or small, round or square bales) with all other feed stuffs, making a palatable, easily digestible ration for your just-fresh cows. By starting with lots of hay in the mix, then gradually reducing the hay until they are on full feed, you will get them to peak production faster, and improve your bottom line.

A premium quality galvanized auger designed for low maintenance operation.

Mayrath introduces the all new "InLine Drive" series of portable grain augers. Mayrath has combined operational efficiency with long term dependability providing you with a high quality, GALVANIZED auger at a very affordable price. The revolutionary "InLine Drive" system minimizes the number of moving parts...greatly reducing costly downtime and maintenance in the future.

Mayrath InLine Drive

DIAMETER	CAPACITY	LENGTHS
8"	3200 BPH	32', 42', 52', 62', 72'
10"	4500 BPH	32', 42', 52', 62', 72'

The InLine Drive
Unique in design, high in efficiency.

The gearbox is located "InLine" with the actual auger flighting. The outer tube is expanded to allow unobstructed and efficient flow of grain past the gear drive section. This design proves to be both economical and low maintenance in operation.

The unique "InLine Drive" design features an internally mounted gearbox inside of an expanded, bell shaped tube housing. Auger flighting is positioned to allow a high volume of unrestricted grain flow around the internal gearbox. A new intake design utilizes double flighting and a cupped intake guard to offer a high capacity, complete cleanout operation. A specially engineered hopper bolts directly to top of the intake guard, further enhancing the auger's capacity.

"I am 100% for Hoober Uptime Service. We have been doing Uptime Service on our Axial-Flow combines since the program was started in 1981. I wouldn't be without it. It is money well spent."

Mel Lapp
(Case-IH 2188 Combine)
Cochranville, PA

"I feel Hoober Uptime Service is definitely worthwhile. Hoober's technicians know what they're looking at. I had no trouble last year on my combine or cornhead. I would recommend it to anyone."

Frank Hartung
Pottstown, PA

"I get Hoober Uptime Service done every year. I haven't had any major breakdowns on my 1660 combine since I bought it in 1991. How much money does Uptime Service save me? I'll never know! It never broke! Uptime Service is like insurance... it pays to have it."

Dave Bibus
(Case-IH 1660 Combine)
Wrightstown, NJ

"Hoober Uptime Service works great for us. Hoober technicians know what they are doing, and they repair it quick. Come harvest season, my combine is ready to go."

Tom Stoneback
Quakertown, PA

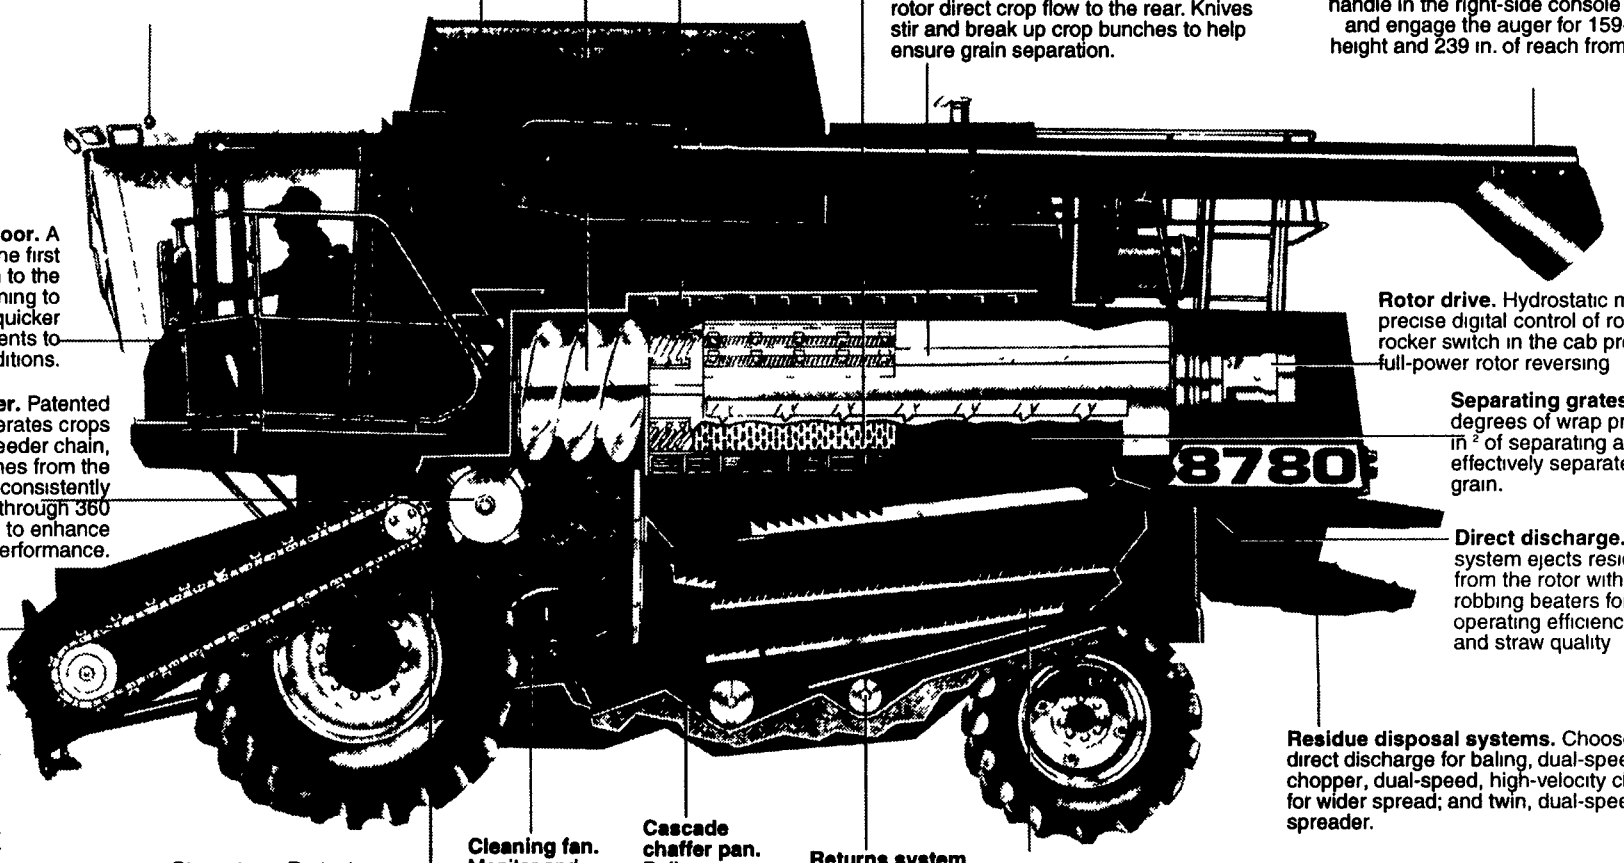
The inside story on the ultimate harvesting machine.

MASSEY FERGUSON 8780



Rotor intake. Hardened auger flighting moves crop from the conical rotor intake area to the threshing area.

Threshing area. Hardened threshing elements smooth crop flow while rasp bars rub crops against the concaves to efficiently dislodge the grain.

Concaves. Seven sections with 140 degrees of wrap provide more than 2,200 in² of area for gentle, yet complete threshing.

Grain tank. 230-bu. tank has folding extensions to reduce combine height to just 148 in.

Sweeps, knives, and vanes. Rotor sweeps ensure crop rotation generating centrifugal force to separate remaining grain. Angled, stationary vanes above the rotor direct crop flow to the rear. Knives stir and break up crop bunches to help ensure grain separation.

Turret unloader. Buttons on the multifunction handle in the right-side console let you swing and engage the auger for 159-in. discharge height and 239 in. of reach from the combine center

Grain sample door. A chute delivers the first bit of grain to the access opening to facilitate quicker adjustments to changing conditions.

Rotor drive. Hydrostatic motor provides precise digital control of rotor speeds A rocker switch in the cab provides easy, full-power rotor reversing Front feed beater. Patented beater accelerates crops leaving the feeder chain, separates stones from the crop flow, and consistently feeds the rotor through 360 degrees to enhance performance.

Separating grates. A full 180 degrees of wrap provides 2,241 in² of separating area to effectively separate remaining grain.

Direct discharge. Patented system ejects residue directly from the rotor without power-robbing beaters for increased operating efficiency, reliability and straw quality

Feeder system. Wide, 44-in width matches the exceptional rotor capacity. Downtime is reduced with a feed system reverse, operated from within the cab, to quickly clear feed system and header

Residue disposal systems. Choose from direct discharge for baling, dual-speed chopper, dual-speed, high-velocity chopper for wider spread; and twin, dual-speed spreader.

Stone trap. Protects your combine by capturing and storing rocks for later disposal.

Cleaning fan. Monitor and adjust fan speed from the cab to ensure proper cleaning under changing conditions.

Cascade chaffer pan. Delivers crop from the grain pan to the front of the chaffer to ensure full utilization of the cleaning area.

Returns system Large augers and elevator maintain harvesting rates in high-yelding crops.

Pressurized cleaning shoe. Front 8 in. of lower sieve area is nonadjustable airfoil material. Along with a large chaffer and lower sieve, this produces a total cleaning area of 6,815 in².

BUSINESS ❖ NEWS

Bernie Wiles, center, Gettysburg Agway committee chairman, and Steve Matthias, right, Agway sales specialist, discuss the farmer cooperative's recent $5,000 donation to the Adams County Agricultural and Natural Resource Center with Tom Clowney, a member of the Ag Center's capital campaign committee. Clowney accepted the check from Wiles and Matthias at the future site of the ag center, located along Old Harrisburg Road in Cumberland Township

Agway Donation Lifts Ag Center Campaign

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) – The capital campaign to outfit and furnish the new Adams County Agricultural and Natural Resource Center recently received a $5,000 boost from the local retail operations of Agway, Inc.

Agway is a farmer-owned cooperative with a variety of retail operations in Adams County, including Agway Energy Products, Andgrow Fertilizer, a feed mill and a Gettysburg store. The cooperative employs 150 people in Adams County and has local sales in excess of $20 million. In addition to the $5,000 donation, Agway Energy has also pledged 2,000 gallons of fuel to the Ag Center project.

So far, the campaign has received more than $250,000 in donations, pledges and in-kind donations from more than 300 individuals and organizations.

The new Ag Center, planned for a site along Old Harrisburg Road in Cumberland Township, will consolidate the offices and efforts of agricultural and natural resources programs and services in the country. It will also provide more space for 4-H programs, the Master Gardener program, and for community activities. Efforts are under way to recognize the historical significance of the site, which was the location of the Adams County Alms farm.

The construction of a 32,000-square-foot building is expected to begin this summer. Area agricultural agencies expect to occupy the building in the spring of the year 2000.

For more information, or to make a donation or pledge, contact the Adams County Conservation District at (717) 334-0636.

Construction Equipment Association Sets Convention

BROWNSVILLE (Fayette Co.) — The Historical Construction Equipment Association will hold its annual convention here August 13 - 15.

This convention brings together antique construction equipment from the United States and Canada. Steam and gas shovels, crawler tractors, bulldozers, graders, trucks, and many other relics of the past will be in operation at the convention.

The show is held in conjunction with the National Pike Steam, Gas and Horse Association's annual summer show, which features many exhibits of farming equipment from past eras.

Highlights of the 1999 HCEA convention include an Erie B steam shovel, a gathering of Caterpillar Sixty tractors, and a flea market area featuring parts for old equipment.

Model and toy construction equipment will be displayed by members of the HCEA. A buffet dinner will be held on site Saturday night. A large gathering of equipment is expected and the crowd nears 5,000 attendees.

Dealership Earns Service Excellence Rating

ELIZABETHTOWN, (Lancaster Co) – Messick Farm Equipment located here has earned the New Holland Service Excellence rating for 1998.

According to Bob Messick this recognition is based on a thorough evaluation by New Holland service experts of the dealership's service operation.

"To get the Service Excellence rating we have to meet New Holland standards in areas such as service personnel training; shop facilities, tools, and procedures; program administration; even bookkeeping. They look at everything," said Messick.

Messick said that Messick Farm Equipment personnel work hard to qualify for the Service Excellence rating because it's the best way to insure first-class service for customers.

"We want our customers to be completely satisfied with the service they get from us. Meeting the Service Excellence standards helps us achieve our customer satisfaction goal," he said.

Kuhn Introduces New Rakes

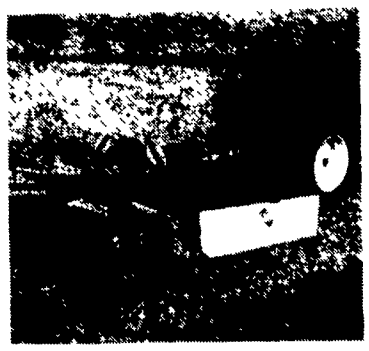
VERNON, N.Y. — Two new models of Gyrorakes, the GA 4311 GM and the GA 4511 GM, have been added to the Gyrorake line from Kuhn Farm Machinery, Inc., Vernon, New York USA, and Kuhn S.A., Saverne France.

These new rakes feature a new patented Kuhn gearbox that features a heavy duty "Bull Gear" type rotor drive. This heavy-duty rotor drive system allows for much greater reliability in a large diameter rotor when compared to other rotor drive systems.

These rakes also feature more tine arms — 12 arms on the 4311 and 13 arms on the 4511 — for the cleanest raking possible. The 4511 also features hydraulic control of swath width, hydraulic folding guards, and standard bogie axles.

The rotary raking design leaves a superbly formed windrow. Windrows are fluffy and uniform with no roping for decreased drying times and a more uniform smooth pickup. The rotary concept allows faster, gentler, cleaner operation with minimum leaf damage at all speeds. Kuhn Gyrorakes also will perform as a windrow merger and inverter.

Kuhn offers 11 rake models with widths from 10 feet to 24 feet, both mounted and trailed.



Two new models of Gyrorakes, the GA 4311 GM and the GA 4511 GM, have been added to the Gyrorake line from Kuhn Farm Machinery, Inc.

New Holland Signs Joint Venture

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — New Holland N.V. (NYSE:NH) announced the signing of a joint venture contract with the state-run Harbin Machinery Plant of the Heilongiang Beidahuang State Farm Group. Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

The new entity will be called Harbin New Holland Beidahuang Tractors Ltd., and will manufacture New Holland agricultural tractors in the 100-180 horsepower range for sale in the People's Republic of China and for export. New Holland will own approximately 70 percent of the JV and the Heilongiang Beidahuang State Farm Group will own the remaining 30 percent. The contract is subject to approval by the Heilongiang Provincial Administration of Foreign Investment.

"This is an important step for New Holland in the People's Republic of China, one that allows us to make an important contribution to the development of a large-scale Chinese agriculture," New Holland's Chief Executive Officer, Umberto Quadrino, commented. "The characteristics of the agricultural land of Heilongiang Province offer excellent prospects for rapid productivity improvements through mechanization. By building tractors in direct partnership with our largest customer, the State Farm Group of Heilongiang Province, we ensure that Europe's best selling tractor will also match precisely the needs of China's large-scale farming operations.

"We are honored to participate in a substantial way toward the development of the 100-180 horsepower segment. New Holland, through its predecessor companies, has a long history of involvement in the development of Chinese agriculture. We are in advanced discussions regarding participation in other tractor segments, and in the manufacture of other agricultural equipment, with another important Chinese partner. As the People's Republic of China pursues its systematic program of productivity improvement in the agricultural sector, we hope these discussions will lead to further opportunities to contribute to our expertise in this important market."

Go Out On A Limb To Care For Young Trees

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — It may look like a misprint, but according to a community forestry expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, the most important steps in caring for a young tree start before you buy the tree.

"The crucial part of choosing a tree is matching a tree to the spot you've selected," said Bill Elmendorf, instructor and urban and community forest program coordinator in the School of Forest Resources.

Elmendorf suggests consumers think carefully about the color, size and branching shape of a tree before choosing a plant site. Then, once a site is chosen, the homeowner should carefully examine the site conditions for: soil pH, soil compaction, presence of sun or shade, and moisture.

"Then, you can pick a tree that is tolerant of the conditions and can adapt easily to the site," Elmendorf said. "The idea is to prevent as much care and maintenance as you can before you buy the tree."

When buying the tree, spend as much time as possible checking for damage, disease, or quality problems. "Don't buy a tree just because it's on sale. Buy the tree that you want from a quality nursery or home center," Elmendorf said.

After the purchase, Elmendorf suggests some do's and don'ts for tree buyers.

•Don't transport the tree unprotected. Cover or wrap the tree in a tarp or plastic sheeting. "If you throw the tree in the back of a pickup and race home at 65 miles per hour, the tree will be damaged by leaf loss, and the wind will dry out the plant," Elmendorf said.

Handle the tree carefully. Tress never should be lifted by the trunk or lifted using chains or ropes around the trunk. Elmendorf recommends lifting the tree by the root ball.

•Don't hesitate to plant the tree. Elmendorf suggests storing a tree no longer than a week. If the tree must be stored, cover the root ball in mulch and keep it moist.

•Prune before planting, but not too much. Limited pruning, such as eliminating crossed branches or damaged limbs, is acceptable. "Don't prune away leaves unless absolutely necessary," Elmendorf said. "Leaves give trees the energy for growing roots."

Digging a hole for the tree may seem the simplest part of the job, but Elmendorf warns that attention must be paid to the dirty work. "What consumers have to understand is you can't plant a $100 tree in a $1 hole," Elmendorf said.

In general, foresters recommend that trees be planted in wide holes, at least three times the width of the root ball. The top of the root ball should be level with the existing terrain. The root ball should rest on firm soil and in most cases original soils can be used to fill in the hole.

"If the soil is really poor or full of rubble, you can fill the hole with high quality top soil," Elmendorf said. "In most cases you shouldn't use peat moss or soil amendments because they act as a sponge and retain water, especially in clay soils."

Elmendorf recommends watering the tree as soon as it is planted, using a slow soaking watering that gets to the bottom of the root ball. To retain moisture, he suggests spreading 2 to 3 inches of mulch at the base of the tree. "Keep the mulch 2 to 3 inches away from the trunk because it can rot the bark, and don't make a mountain of mulch," he said.

After the first year, the tree should be watered beyond the root ball, preferably out to where the foliate ends. Elmendorf says fertilizers shouldn't be used in the first year.

"The roots aren't developed enough to take advantage of the fertilizer," he said. "In many cases, soils in Pennsylvania do not need fertilizer. Too much fertilizer can cause too much growth which invites storm damage or insect damage."

Elmendorf says trees usually do not require stake supports, unless the planting site is extremely windy or in an area where trees might be vandalized. If homeowners do use stakes, he recommends using rubber or plastic ties rather than wire.

Homeowners should prune to refine and protect the shape of the tree between the third and fifth year. He also recommends keeping the tree mulched throughout its lifetime to help it better absorb nutrients, stop competition from turfgrass and prevent damage from lawn equipment

Toll Free IPM Service Grows in Popularity

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Farmers who need the latest information on pest infestations before deciding whether to use pesticides increasingly are turning to a toll-free telephone service offered by the Pennsylvania Integrated Pest Management (IPM) Program.

During its sixth year of existence in 1998, the hotline (800-PENN-IPM) received more than 700 calls for sweet corn crop information and another 700 for Christmas tree information. The total number of calls received for all crops was more than 3,500.

The hotline provides Christmas tree growers, agricultural crop producers, turfgrass managers and others with the most recent pheromone trap capture counts for their region, current disease development information, and tips on pest management tactics from the Pennsylvania IPM Program. Information on Christmas trees, sweet corn, potatoes, tomatoes and ornamental plants, as well as scheduled pesticide applicator training sessions.

These messages are updated frequently during the growing season — sometimes as often as daily during critical management periods — and are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Pest management specialists from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Penn State's entomology and plant pathology departments, and county offices of Penn State Cooperative Extension contribute their time and expertise to keep the information current and useful.

By monitoring the latest pest information and following recommended IPM practices, growers often can reduce reliance on pesticides.

The hotline system also includes a "fax-on-demand" function. When available, the caller simply requests a fax and indicates his or her fax number. The system then will send a fax containing in-depth information about the crop, graphs of insect activity over time and other data.

IPM is an approach to managing pests such as insects, diseases, weeds and animals by integrating appropriate physical, biological and chemical tactics that are safe, profitable and economically compatible. The Pennsylvania IPM Program is a collaboration between Penn State and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture aimed at promoting integrated pest management in both agricultural and nonagricultural situations.

Cornell Revises 1999 Vegetable IPM Publication

GENEVA, N.Y. – Nearly five years of labor will yield results this spring when growers from all over the Northeast start using a 1999 edition of Cornell Univers-ity's "Integrated Crop and Pest Management Recommen-dations for Commercial Vegetable Production," which has been extensively revised. The publication represents a significant change in direction for the 11-volume "Pest Recommends" Series because it includes options of benefit to both the environment and the bottom line in addition to the pesticides useful in pest management.

"In the original 'Recommends,' it was hard to find certain integrated pest management (IPM) information," said Curtis H. Petzoldt, associate director of the New York IPM Program, who was primarily responsible for funding the project and establishing the format. "Our goal for the new version was to make the IPM information as readily available as pesticide information while still maintaining an easy-to-follow format. We think we succeeded!"

The 1999 version was scheduled to be released at the annual New York State Vegetable Conference in Syracuse, in February and replaces two previous Cornell Cooperative Extension publications; "Vegetable Production Handbook" and the "1998 Pest Management Recommendations for Commercial Vegetable and Potato Production."

The 305-page soft-cover manual represents the cooperative efforts of two other Cornell faculty in addition to Petzoldt; horticultural scientist Stephen Reiners and entomologist Michael P. Hoffmann. They were assisted by freelance editors Christine Schoenfield and Elizabeth Spittler.

Cooperative Extension educator, Lee Stivers, has been using a pre-release version of the book. "The '1999 Recommends' is a vast improvement over previous editions," Stivers said. "The layout is well-designed, is very user-friendly, and, for the first time in years–maybe ever!–all control strategies, not just chemical pesticides, are shown together for each pest. Faced with an insect, disease or weed problem, a grower can now locate it in the book and easily read about why he is seeing the problem, what he can do about it, and ways to avoid the problem in the future.

N.Y. Farm Bureau Welcomes New Ag Commissioner

GLENMONT, N.Y. – The New York State Senate confirmed recently Governor Pataki's appointment of Nathan Rudgers as commissioner of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

New York Farm Bureau, the state's largest general farm advocacy organization, is enthused with the recent appointment and welcomes Commissioner Rudgers to his new leadership position.

"We have been and continue to be impressed with Nathan's knowledge and dedication to New York State's agricultural industry," said John Lincoln, president of New York Farm Bureau. "We look forward to working closely with Commissioners Rudgers as we further promote the betterment of agriculture in New York State."

Rudgers was born and raised on his family's 500-acre dairy farm in Wyoming County, where they were active members of their county Farm Bureau. He was graduated from Cornell University in 1982 with a bachelor's degree in agricultural economics.

"From his farm background, education and experience as a former Deputy Commissioner, we are confident in Nathan's ability to serve as Governor Pataki as the nearly appointed Commissioner of Agriculture," said Lincoln.
